U.S., Hanoi reveal peace package

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington and Hanoi unveiled today the terms of an intricate peace accord to end America's longest war, and negotiator Henry A. Kissinger expressed confidence a Saturday ceasefire in South Vietnam would later spread across all of Indochina.

Both Kissinger and his North Vietnamese negotiating counterpart said there were no secret peace terms.

The chief U.S. negotiator made these other major points in his 90-minute White House news conference:

—About 145,000 North Vietnamese troops remain in South Vietnam, but Kissinger said their numbers "should over a period of time be subject to considerable reduction" because they cannot be reinforced, resupplied or replaced.

—The release of American prisoners of war held in North Vietnam and Laos will begin by mid-February in Hanoi and will be completed at 15-day intervals during the 60-day period when U.S. troops are being withdrawn from the South.

—The political independence of South Vietnam is guaranteed and its future form, including the fate of President Nguyen Van Thieu's government, will be determined, without outside interference, by the South Vietnamese themselves.

—A National Council on National Reconciliation and Concord will be organized among the South Vietnamese themselves on a three-part basis solely to organize the elections and implementation of the agreement, not to act in any way as a coalition government.

—The demilitarized zone continues as a temporary military demarcation line which cannot be violated under any circumstances by military forces of either side, Kissinger said. Neither Cambodia or Laos can be used as infiltration routes or as bases for foreign troops, he said.

—The agreement in no way restricts U.S. military forces off Vietnam's shores or in Thailand, he said. "The deployment would be more geared to the war situation" than to anticipation of an established peace, Kissinger added.

—Discussion of U.S. economic aid to all of Indochina, including North Vietnam, will come "only after the signature of the agreement and after its implemention is well advanced," the negotiator said.

Kissinger also forecast an eventual "de facto cease-fire" in Cambodia, a neighboring country drawn into the long Indochina conflict.

The 12-page agreement, to be signed Saturday before the Vietnam cease-fire takes effect at 7 p.m. EST that day, does not call for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South—but it does call for all foreign troops to leave Laos and Cambodia.

Expanding on stated terms of the agreement, Kissinger told a White House news conference that U.S. prisoners held in North Vietnam and Laos will be turned over to American medical personnel in Hanoi at two-week intervals while U.S. forces withdraw from South Vietnam.

Kissinger said the United States seeks "a peace that heals," and one that will last. He said the U.S. aim is to move from hostilities to normalization and conciliation with North Vietnam.

"...We believe that under conditions of peace we can contribute throughout Indochina to a realization of the humane aspirations of all the people of Indochina," he said, "and we will in that spirit perform our traditional role of helping people realize these aspirations in peace."

The presidential adviser said the U.S.-Hanoi agreement forbids the use of base areas in Laos and Cambodia to infiltrate Communist troops into South Vietnam.

He said it is "our firm expectation that within a short period of time there will be a formal cease-fire in Laos ... leading to the withdrawal of all foreign forces" and ending use of the country as a corridor for infiltration.

The Cambodian situation is more complex, Kissinger said. But he added that he expects a "de facto cease-fire will come into being" in that country within a time frame "related to the execution of this agreement."

Kissinger would not elaborate on the Laotian and Cambodian cease- fires he forecast.

Two men admit murder plot, deny shooting

DONIPHAN, Mo. (AP) — Two Van Buren, Mo., men have admitted participating in the plot to kill three members of a Grandin family but have denied roles in the shootings, Ripley County Prosecuting Attorney James Hall said Tuesday.

Hall said Jerry W. Rector, 22, and Lloyd Cowin, 21, two of three men charged with murder, admitted Saturday night, during a coroner's inquest, to participating in the abduction and slaying of the three.

A third man charged in the case, Dallas R. Delay, 33, of Valles Mines, Mo., did not testify at the inquest, Hall said.

The bodies of Robert R. Kitterman, 43; his wife Bertha, 38, and their daughter Roberta, 17, were found tied to trees last Wednesday, an hour after a bizarre kidnap and extortion plot unfolded.

Each was shot in the head. Kitterman had earlier taken $9,811 from the Bank of Grandin, where he was president, as apparent ransom.

Hall said the coroner's inquest held three days after the slayings was not closed to the public but was not publicized because of concern for the security of those charged.

Rector and Cowin told of their parts in kidnaping the Kittermans and of collecting the ransom, Hall said, but also testified Delay produced a gun when the three arrived at a remote, wooded area.

All three men are charged with murder, bank robbery and kidnaping. They were charged Monday at a hearing before Ripley County Magistrate Willie L. Dodd, who denied bond.

Sikeston officials compiling new patrol information

City officials are compiling new information on the Sikeston site for the new highway patrol Troop E headquarters in another effort to gain support from Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond and Col. Samuel Smith, new highway patrol superintendent.

Bond asked for the reports after a meeting Tuesday in Jefferson City with five Sikeston representatives. The report will contain information not previously stressed by the city in its campaign to secure the headquarters.

Mayor Frank Ferrell, who attended Tuesday's meeting, said he hoped Bond and Smith would review the information on Friday when Smith returns from Washington, D. C.

Ferrell said he didn't know how much good the information would do, "but at least they're going to look into it."

In the report, the city will point out that Cape Girardeau Municipal Airport, just a 20-minute drive from Sikeston, is planning to install a new instrument landing approach system.

The report will also say that the state will save money by building in Sikeston, if a so-called satellite headuqarters is to be built. Those offices would be on the other side of the troop zone from the main headquarters. A proposal to build a separate satellite headquarters is reportedly being considered, in addition to the new main headquarters.

The report will say that if the main headquarters are built in Sikeston, the patrol can use its old headquarters for its satellite office. However, if the main headquarters are built in Poplar Bluff, the state will also have to build offices outside of Poplar Bluff.

The report will also say that if the Sikeston site is rejected, or the decision is postponed beyond Jan. 28, new bids will have to be called for, adding to the expense of the building. The bids already called on the Sikeston site will expire on Jan. 28.

The report will also point out that Sikeston is the communications hub of the Bootheel.

Voters approve bond issue

The water system bond was approved by a vote of 407 to 42, and the plant expansion issue passed by 423 to 25, according to Mayor J. C.

N. Madrid men held for Indiana slaying

GOSHEN, Ind. — Three New Madrid, Mo., men are in the Elkhart County jail charged with the Jan. 14 murder of Henry Mook, 57, of Goshen during a burglary of Keene Products Inc. in Middlebury.

Formally charged with murder in Elkhart County Circuit Court on Jan. 18 were Albert Louis (Butch) Williams, 28; his brother, Stephen Wayne Williams, 22; and a half brother, Willard Leslie (Donnie) Kimball III, 18. Kimball was charged with being an accessory after the fact.

According to Sgt. Sid Fish of the Indiana State Police, the three men beat Mook, a night watchman at the plant, stabbed him with a screwdriver and slit his throat before burglarizing the building. The men said they had only intended to knock the guard out.

The brothers failed to report to work the next day at Keene Products, and the three men reportedly fled to Coleman, Ala. On their return to Indiana, they were arrested by Indiana State Police and Elkhart County sheriff's department.

A grand jury hearing into the case was scheduled today.

Stephen Williams was sentenced on Dec. 18 in New Madrid County Court to 10 years following a plea of guilty to a rape charge. He was placed on probation without supervision.

Malone won't stand trial

John Malone, who allegedly fleeced Sikeston businessmen for over $11,000 in 1971, will not have to stand trial, Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig ruled yesterday.

Craig agreed with Malone's court-appointed attorney, Gene Yokley that the lengthy delay in bringing him to court violated Malone's constitutional right to a speedy trial.

Malone will return to Sandstone federal prison in Minnesota where he still must serve several years of a federal sentence for transporting a stolen car across state lines. He will be eligible for parole in two months, however. He has been in jail since 1971 when he was arrested in Milwaukee while posing as an FBI agent.

Yokley argued that Malone should be released because he was not returned to Scott County quickly after his federal trial.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore argued against Yokley's motion, but failed.

Yokley said he thought it was the first time such a ruling had been made in the county.

Moore said former Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore had difficulty gathering evidence and prying Malone out of the federal prison.

Malone arrived in Sikeston in 1971, claiming to represent the Kirkpatrick and O'Donnell heavy equipment leasing company. He said his firm was planning on setting up offices in the city.

Malone opened an office at the Dunn Hotel, hired secretaries, discussed contracts with oil companies, and rented desks, tables, filing cabinets, dictating equipment and typewriters.

Then one morning in February, he loaded the office equipment into a rental trailer and drove away in a new automobile allegedly purchased with bogus checks.

It was for transporting that car across state lines that he was sent to Sandstone.

Committee to study landfill

BLOOMFIELD— The County Court, mayors, and city officials of Stoddard County met Tuesday night at the courthouse to discuss what to do about a sanitary landfill program, which must be completed and in operation by July 30.

All open pit dumping must be stopped by that date, and only approved sanitary landfills can be used. Each city must adopt some feasible plan or be subject to being fined for each day that a landfill is not completed and in operation.

The biggest problem for the group seemed to be financing the landfill after an approved site has been selected. Mayor Willis Conner of Dexter, unofficial chairman of the discussion session, said he hoped to use some of the revenue- sharing money received by Dexter as a beginning on the project.

The majority of the group seemed to favor the idea of the County Court plan, with the court determining who could use a centrally located landfill, probably between Dexter and Bloomfield.

Among several suggestions for financing the landfill was a plan in which each individual household would have a $1.50 to $2 a month user fee added to its water bill for collection and hauling of refuse to the landfill site.

It was pointed out that this would require rural residents to haul to the site for themselves and, in all probability, would cause littering, as many people would simply dump refuse in ditches, gullies and along highways.

After several hours of discussion and no action, attorney Paul McGhee of Dexter suggested that Ermer Garner, presiding judge of the County Court, be appointed chairman of a committee to include each city mayor and one member from each township to study the matter further and report suggestions at a later date to the entire group.

The group will meet Feb. 6 in the courthouse.

Arson is suspected in house fire

IDALIA — Arson is suspected in a fire at 7:24 p.m. Tuesday which destroyed the home of J. H. Gilooly one mile east of Idalia on Route E.

No one was at home at the time of the fire.

Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser said today that anyone who has information regarding any person or persons seen in the area between 6: 45 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. should contact the sheriff's department.

Bogus bills passed

Two counterfeit $20 bills turned up Monday in Sikeston, police said today.

The bills were used to pay for purchases of alcoholic beverages at the Wagon Wheel tavern and Baugher's liquor store, both on West Malone Avenue.

No description was available of the man who passed the bill at the liquor store, but the cashier at the Wagon Wheel described him as a white male, about 6 feet tall, with gray and black hair, and wearing a black suit. The cashier said he was in a car with three other men.

Lt. Leonard Campbell said the bills were printed on poor quality paper, but otherwise were good-looking. The serial number on both bills is H34906137A.

James appointment goes back to Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The on-again, off-again appointment of Robert L. James as commissioner of administration bounced back to the Missouri Senate today.

The Senate was expected to discuss James' appointment after the rules committee decided Tuesday night to send the appointment back to the Senate for the second time with a recommendation that it be returned to Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

After brief debate Monday, the Senate hedged on Bond's request and sent the appointment back to committee.

At issue is whether James, 32, meets statutory qualifications of having lived in the state five full years before his appointment Jan. 15 and whether he must have a masters degree in public administration as the law says.

James, formerly in the auditor's office, has a degree in business administration. He has not lived in the state five straight years although he was born in Webb City. Bond maintains James meets one constitutional test for gubernatorial appointees, and that is residence in the state for at least one year.

Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, has introduced a bill to change the law setting up the office of administration so James could qualify.

Meanwhile, the Senate received a recommendation that Harry Wiggins, who was chairman of the George McGovern Democratic presidential campaign in Missouri, be confirmed as the new general counsel for the Public Service Commission.

The Senate also was expected to begin debate on an open meetings bill which cleared the rules committee Tuesday after two hours of debate.

A controversial clause saying closed meetings may be used "only for the purpose of discussion" was changed by the sponsor, Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, to read that meetings could be closed on for discussion on matters of public business that had been previously discussed in an open meeting.

Missouri has an open records law but no law insuring open meetings of governmental bodies.

Cason's bill would require that school boards, city councils, legislative committees and others be kept open. There is no provision for punishment if the law is violated. The only recourse would be by circuit court injunction upon petition by citizens.

Among those objecting to the sentence allowing any kind of closed discussion was Carl Wilson, chairman of the Citizen's Lobby.

A few minutes earlier, Wilson had been carried out physically, without resistance, from a meeting of the House Appropriations Committee.

The House committee meeting was closed to newsmen. House rules provide executive sessions at any time at the request of the chairman or other legislative leaders.

Most of the appropriations committee members were present. Only two, Reps. Eric Fink, R-Ballwin, and James G. Baker, D-Kansas City, voted for him to stay, Wilson said.

Wilson was the leader of an unsuccessful petition drive last summer to get a constitutional amendment requiring open meetings.

Other amendments to Cason's bill provided for closed meetings on records already closed by law—such as grand juries and juvenile court proceedings—and eliminates recording of abstention votes. Committee members felt the public could easily find out who did not vote or who was absent.

Another amendment provided for recording of votes if a roll call is taken.

Several newsmen, including Bob Priddy, news director of radio station KLIK in Jefferson Citv. testified.

Priddy said the bill should include a provision allowing television cameras and tape recorders.

Several committee members questioned whether a lot of TV camers would be too distracting.

"You can always move to a larger room," Priddy said.

Mary Ann Yates of Columbia, representing the Missouri League of Women Voters, said the league's consensus was that all votes should be made public.

"We'd never get any work done," said Sen. A. Clifford Jones.

Joines pointed out that it costs $12 for each roll call, and with 163 members in the House, it would be folly to take a roll call on each of the hundreds of meaningless courtesy resolutions that are passed.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Nearly anyone who has anything to do with retail shopping or retail selling would agree that grocery advertising in newspapers is highly effective.

To the consumer, the grocery advertising represents savings in time, money, and transportation costs. To the grocer, the advertising means greater volume and savings in sales' costs, storage, and wholesale prices.

Because the effects of newspaper advertising by grocery stores can be noted so quickly and objectively, experienced grocers have little doubt concerning its value. Thus, grocery advertising is consistently a dominating feature of newspapers.

Retailers handling other types of products cannot employ methods for the immediate testing of advertising as grocers use; however, other retailers do stand to gain the same benefits when they employ the techniques used by the more alert grocers.

Savings in the form of lower wholesale prices, losses from surplus and dated stock, sales' costs, and storage expenses may be gained through effective advertising by any type of retail firm.

The store which is forced to sell clothing in post-season give-aways has lost money because it did not make effective use of advertising when demand existed. Clothing loses value when it is not sold just as perishable foods do.

The variety store or the hardware store are in identical situations. Failure to inform the public concerning products on hand during periods of seasonal demands, results in losses which follow from storage and out- of season sales of dated products. Or, it may result in loss of business to competition which has given the public more complete information.

Uncle Sam can't prolong his debt or help Communist countries without the help of his nephews and nieces, as two security offerings so deftly reveal. In Case A, $18 billion, yes billion, in 1952 bonds have come due, but Uncle Sam doesn't really want to pay off. So through Salomon Brothers investment bankers, the government is allowing the 1952 bond holders to turn in their 4% -plus bonds for new ones maturing in 1992 which will carry a nifty 7.1% interest rate.

In Case B, the Export- Import Bank, an independent agency of the government, is offering $300 million in 1975 debentures to the public at 5.30% interest. The Ex-Im Bank's purpose under enabling Acts of 1945 and 1968 is to "aid in financing and to facilitate exports and imports." Though the Ex-Im Bank is a respected agency, it has been involved in trade deals advantageous to the Soviet Union. Back in 1966, Life Lines broke the story that the building of a Fiat auto factory by Italy in Russia was not strictly a Russo- Italian business arrangement as had been publicized. The Ex-Im Bank had been asked to be the financial angel which would finance the purchase of tools and machinery Italy would need for the Fiat factory. The story enraged Congress which passed an amendment to stop Ex-Im financing of the needed equipment. Congress apparently balked at helping the Russians while they were supplying the North Vietnamese with war material. Ex-Im officials told Life Lines they didn't see anything wrong with U. S. involvement. At any rate, would-be buyers of the Ex-Im debentures should be put on notice as to the deeper implications of such purchases especially at this time when the administration is expanding trade with the slave masters in Moscow. As for the 1972 bond holders, the pot has been sweetened beyond conscience, which makes it easier to forget that someday the debt will have to be paid or repudiated. Wouldn't it be tragic if the repudiation came before the first 7.1% interest payment?

BELIEVES THE PEOPLE HAVE THE RIGHT TO KNOW

State Senator William Cason is pushing the "Sunshine Bill", one which will put on open record the actions and votes of any public body, including all Legislative committees, so that the taxpayers may know what their representatives are doing.

We concur with Sen. Cason, when he said;

"Today, in Missouri, many meetings are closed to the public and news media. Records of these bodies, unless required to be kept by law, are unavailable to any individual. No public body need even notify the news media that they are meeting. This, in effect, makes a conspiracy of silence which cannot be tolerated. Witness the refusal of the House Appropriations Committee in tabling the appropriations in the last special session. No one knew who was responsible for that fiasco. The vote was in secret and the names of those who voted "Yes" and "No" are not known yet.

"If this "Sunshine Bill" is passed, all meetings, even special meetings, would be advertised and open, all records would be available to anyone, and all action of the meeting would be taken in public, including the Legislature".

"Two and two," said the psychologist.

"Four," replied the girl promptly.

To the same key words, the second girl said: "It might be 22."

The third girl answered, "It might be four and it might be 22."

After the last girl had left, the psychologist turned to the boss.

"There," he said, "you have the perfect example of the efficient psychological way of hiring people. The first girl said the obvious thing. The second was suspicious. The third was cagey and wasn't going to get caught. Which do you prefer?

The boss did not hesitate, "I'll take the blonde with the blue eyes."

Why do some manufacturers charge extra for an automatic cord reel on a vacuum cleaner? Shouldn't such safety features be mandatory?

Some persons can operate a vacuum cleaner with no cord entanglements. They may find a cord reel unnecessary. Others constantly hassle with the cord and will undoubtedly find the automatic cord reel well worth the extra cost. Safety and convenience features for some consumers are viewed as price boosters by others. That's why manufacturers usually offer them as optional.

Are attachments usually included in the purchase price of a vacuum cleaner?

It's a good idea to check to see which tools are included in the advertised price. Attachments are usually optional for upright cleaners Canister tank-type cleaners usually include a hose, two wands, a rug cleaning tool, a bare floor sweeper, upholstery tool, dusting brush and crevice tool.

Is a one-year guarantee standard for all vacuum cleaners?

Most manufacturers of vacuum cleaners offer a guarantee of one year on parts and labor. Occasionally, you'll find some parts are guaranteed for less time.

"Well," explained Mr. Edison, "I guess I'm an awfully good sponge. I absorb ideas from every source I can, and put them to practical use. Then I improve them until they become of some value. The ideas I use are mostly the ideas of people who don't develop them themselves.

"Among the bad qualities of glass coaches is the flying open of the doors upon any great shake. A FAIR PRICE

Our capacity to consumer goods and services increases at an astounding rate. Exemplifying this trend is the demand for electric power. The Federal Power Commission's recently updated National Power Survey indicates an increase in demand for electric energy of over four times in the next 20 years. This will involve a growth in generating capacity from over 300,000 megawatts in 1970 to an estimated 1.26 million megawatts in 1990.

If the power demands of the future are to be met, both the general public and regulatory agencies must recognize the costs that are involved. Commenting on this, the Chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Mr. John N. Nassikas observes: "Federal and state regulatory action must assure a level of rates and return to enable the electric utility industry to attract an estimated $350 billion of capital at reasonable costs of money to provide optimum untility service to the consumer at a fair price." As exceptionally high interest rates and sharp inflationary costs increases all along the line persist, it has become evident that the traditional downward trend in costs of electric service cannot continue in most cases. More frequently than in the past, it is probable that a fair price will involve a rate increase.

It is difficult to imagine the consequences that would flow from the inability of the electric industry to attract enough private investment funds to build the facilities required to supply the nation's power needs. In such a circumstance, it is traditional to turn to government for funds and that could only mean the deep involvement of political management and bureaucracy in the provision of the nation's basic energy source. A few pennies a day, added to the average household electric bill, is a fair price to pay for abundant and reliable electric service. Such a supply of electric power is essential to the realization of such things as higher living standard for all and environmental improvement that we have set as national goals for the future.

REGULATORY INJUSTICE

New accounts of declining earnings in the airline industry and announcements by airline managements of the discontinuance of a number of flights on scheduled routes, raises once again, the question of the efficacy of public regulation. Are the airlines to become another victim of regulatory paralysis as have the railroads?

The rails are the oldest, publicly - regulated segment of the transportation industry. Archaic regulatory policies, judging by news reports, have brough them to the brink of disaster. Regulatory inadequacy now appears to threaten the airlines. It is striking particularly hard at the airline tha pioneered the international air travel business and for over four decades has been a major factor in maintaining the position of this nation as a leader in international air transport while at the same time paying its own way as a taxpaying, investor - owned enterprise. This airline, Pan American World Airways, has asked no favors and, throughout its history as the nation's leading international air carrier, has assumed certain responsibilities to the public and to the U. S. government in the area of foreign policy. In time of military emergencies, it stands ready to meet vital airlift requirements. Now, the blind hand of regulation is placing it under a heavy competitive handicap. Unlike other airlines, it is prohibited from sharing in domestic traffic rights. Its services are confined to overseas flights, and its service in the United States is limited to certain points of entry. Such a regulatory policy may have been fair enough a few years ago when competition in international air transport was limited; but, again, regulation has become out of date. Pan Am now competes with 89 airlines, many of which are supported by domestic routes. It must also compete with foreign carriers -- nationalized operations subsidized by government.

As a Pan Am spokesman points out, "Fighting uphill to return the company to areasonably profitable operation gets discouraging when all of our competitors have access to both domestic and overseas markets." Pan Am has proven itself to be a national asset of first importance. Regulatory injustice that saps its strength and limits its ability to carry on an outstanding record of service to the nation and the traveling public makes no sense at all.

ALTERNATIVE TO COMPULSION

There is a side to our so-called free enterprise system that the public and politicians know or care little about. This little known side involves the raising of the billions of dollars of capital-- new money-- that must be poured into industry every year by investors if the needs of a growing population for jobs, services and products are to be met. It is all well and good for the environmentalists, politicians and the regulators to raise cain with an industry. But, when they do so without regard to the consequences, they are crawling out on a long and exceedingly slender limb.

No better illustration of such a hazardous course can be seen than in the electrid industry-- the most "capital intensive" industry in the country. It takes a lot of someone's invested savings to produce electric energy. In fact, it takes the savings of millions of citizens, and every dollar of these savings represents voluntary investment. Unless we turn to the system of socialism in which the taxpayer is compelled through taxation to invest involuntarily in power plants and other facilities that keep the nation a going concern, some attention should be paid to the need of an industry to attract investors. In the years to come, this will be especially important in the utility industry. While meeting public demand for low- cost, reliable electric energy, the utility industry must, at the same time, offer a fair return to investors. It is essential that more people understand this side of the utility business.

YOU CAN BE MORE EFFECTIVE

Enthusiasts for Truth and Freedom have been making gains in the battle to halt crime, so now is the time to press forward joyfully with such movements as LAW— AID and FREEDOM FIRST in order to win the battle. Seasoned campaigners have led the good people in support of our good lawmen at every level. When the people overcome fatal apathy, they can win victories. They are winning support for all good peace officers, but much remains to be done if law and order and our Republic are to be saved.

Thanks to these movements by the people, it is becoming less popular to slander good lawmen and law and order. The most sensible things being said about deplorable attacks on lawmen are not coming from sociologists and psychologists who should be the most knowledgeable and wise in the field of human nature.

Observations that really make sense about this situation are to be found in the letters written to the editors of newspapers large and small. Newspapers, especially those in rural areas and smaller cities and towns, afford much wisdom in their letters columns for all who will read them.

These letters make it clear that the people do not approve of crime and criminals and do not accept the doctrine of individual irresponsibility. In the letters the voice of the people speaks clearly. These letter columns give every person who has something to say his own personal editorial column, and what each writes will be read by many. Experienced Freedom enthusiasts have long advocated use of this forum as an important means of waging the fight to save Freedom. You, too, can write letters to the editor and joyfully join in the battle to save Freedom and our Republic. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One reason for the fuel crisis today is the sheer difficulty in keeping pace with civilization's growing needs for power. Within the United States alone our use of all kinds of power has increased twentyfold in 100 years.

Few things depreciate quicker than a new car. It drops about $1,226 in value the first year, about $735 a year over a five-year period. Incidentally, if you are an average owner, do you know what your car costs? If it is a standard car, it costs $6.37 a day to operate. The average for compact models is $4.44, that of subcompacts $3.09.

Earth isn't in style with the times. It isn't getting thinner; it is getting fatter. Its weight is increased by the addition of plant life, which turns the energy from sunlight into matter, and by the fall of some 730,000 tons of cosmic dust each year as we wheel through space. But the amount is so comparatively small that even the man in the moon probably wouldn't be aware of any change in the earth's silhouette through the centuries.

Quotable notables: "For good or ill, your conversation is your advertisement. Every time you open your mouth you let men look into your mind." Bruce Barton.

Smile, kid, smile; A Swiss psychiatrist says that children are very vulnerable to depression during the first year of life. The recommended treatment is to give them more attention. But this must be done as early as possible — else you may be helping to create a child who may grow up to be a sour and melancholy dyspeptic, one that will be a pain in the neck to have as a neighbor.

A fine crop: Just as now and then a vineyard produces a truly great wine, so do some years occur on earth when the world produces a breed of vintage men. Such a year was 1809. Among the notable men born then were William Gladstone, Alfred Tennyson, Charles Darwin, Abraham Lincoln, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Felix Mendelsshon, the composer. Well, for that matter, 1911 wasn't a bad year either.

(Editor's Note; For the benefit of our puzzled readers, that was the year Boyle's mother named her second son Harold Vincent.)

Worth remembering: "Being a husband is like any other job. It helps a lot if you like the boss."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

GOP Bait For Black Lawyers?

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON– The FBI is investigating a report that President Nixon's proposed new anti- poverty chief, Howard Phillips, wanted to offer government grants to black lawyers as an inducement for them to become Republicans.

The charge was leveled by a top official who worked closely with Phillips in the Office of Economic Opportunity in 1971. We have spoken at length with the official who told us, in return for our promise to withhold his identity, what he had reported to the FBI.

"I can recall quite clearly," he said, "Phillips telling us that we ought to find some way of getting OEO money into the hands of some black attorneys and show them the advantage of turning Republican."

The official said he had given the details to FBI agent Al Dougal and was prepared, if it should come to court proceedings, "to step forward and testify." My associate Mike Kiernan reached Dougal who confirmed that the FBI is investigating the charge.

The FBI has learned that Phillips held a private meeting with half a dozen black attorneys in Berkeley, Calif., in the summer of 1971. This coincides with the time that Phillips allegedly urged granting government funds to black attorneys. It coincides, too, with a White House offer of an extra $2.5 million to California to experiment with different methods of providing legal aid to the poor.

The purpose of Phillips' meeting with the black lawyers, ostensibly, was to discuss judicare. This is a proposal to provide legal assistance to the poor through local bar associations or non-profit corporations. Critics claim judicare would wind up benefitting lawyers more than poor people.

GOVERNMENT FEES

The Berkeley meeting was held, coincidentally, in the offices of Tom Berkley, a prosperous black attorney in the Bay Area. State documents show he had been raking in huge fees as a state consultant to OEO. He admits receiving $10,000 in consultant fees for the months of June, July and August, 1971.

He assembled five prominent black lawyers to hear Phillips' pitch. One lawyer who attended the meeting recalls: "The thrust of the meeting was political. Phillips let Berkley do most of the talking, and he did quite a selling job on us. Don't get me wrong. No one said anything about pocketing huge fees. But I came away thinking these people were more interested in promoting their own law practices than in helping the poor."

The attorney was so upset that he went immediately to the Charles Houston Law Club. "He told us what he had heard at the meeting," recalls Don McCullum, the city attorney in Berkeley. "The gist of it was: if we supported private judicare, we could look forward to enjoying considerable financial benefits. Most of us reacted negatively."

We have also obtained notes taken at a later meeting with OEO executives in Washington. Significantly, one entry quotes Phillips as saying: "Subsidized black lawyers (are) necessary..."

Through a spokesman, Phillips denied he has ever made any statement about useing OEO funds to encourage blacks to become Republicans. He acknowledged going to Berkeley, Calif., for what he described as a "routine' meeting.

Footnote: Charles Lloyd, who attended the meeting in California, turned up in Washington last summer as a "policy advisor" to Phillips. Lloyd worked four months, collected $11,000 and returned to his law practice. In response to our inquiries, he asked us to call Tom Berkley, who shouted to us at great length over the long distance phone. "I publish six newspapers. I own property. I run the oldest, biggest integrated law firm in the state," he shouted. "I don't need their money."

LOYALTY TEST?--- Sources in a position to know the facts say Sam Butler, a prominent New York securities lawyer, had the chairmanship of the Securities and Exchange Commission all sewed up. He had impeccable Republican credentials and an excellent background in the securities field. He was escorted over to the White House where presidential aide John Ehrlichman questioned him about his views. Apparently, Butler didn't agree with all the President's war policies. Our sources say Butler suddenly was out in the cold. The loyal Butler, not one to embarrass his party, denies the incident occurred. He admits only that he was in serious contention for the SEC chairmanship.

BRASS RING-- Today the brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go- Round, goes to National Airlines, which quietly has been flying massive relief shipments to the victims of the Nicaragua earthquake. The airline has set up a national hotline, called Dial Info, which provides up- to- the- minute reports on which supplies are most urgently needed. Four of the airlines' sales personnel-- Tom Potter, Daniel Fromme, John Bailey and Tom Powers-- have also helped out at the Nicaraguan Embassy doing necessary but menial chores such as sorting and packing supplies.

Department heads to control own budgets

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The main goal in government reorganization, says Gov. Christopher S. Bond, is to give department heads control over their budgets.

"This is the central requirement," he said Tuesday in an interview.

Bond took no position on either the 542-page Senate reorganization bill or a 27-page House version, but promised to work with legislators in developing a sound plan.

"Power over the budgets is going to have to be lodged in the departmental directors," Bond said. "Its absence would make any reorganization plan a mere reshuffling."

The governor said assignment of different agencies to different departments is secondary in importance to making the agency heads reponsible to the 13 department directors. He said the directors should be clearly responsible for budgetary, personnel and long-range policy problems.

Day-to-day operations of the agencies can be left safely to the various commissions and agency heads, he said, but budgetary and professional staff must remain in the hands of the department directors.

Bond noted that the state Reorganization Commission cited the directors of the departments of public health and welfare and business and administraton as two powerless, functionless offices and he had hoped they could be done away with immediately.

But on investigation, Bond said, he found that was impossible because they have some statutory duties to perform. So, Bond said, he plans to take the unusual step of telling the legislature he would like to get rid of these offices but would have to appoint interim directors temporarily to take care of the statutory duties.

Bond said he, the auditor and the treasurer have approved the Exchange National Bank of Jefferson City as the collection agency for intangible tax receipts but no banks around the state have been approved so far as depositories for time deposits.

He said he did not know at this time whether a new federal bank in Jefferson City being sought by R. Crosby Kemper of Kansas City would figure as one of the depositories.

Kemper was in Jefferson City Tuesday and had lunch with State Auditor John D. Ashcroft, Revenue Director James R. Spradling and Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps.

The new governor — the nation's youngest at 33 — said he found his new job "a great challenge" but had not expected so many problems would hit him all at once.

The first thing that happened as soon as he finished the grand march at the inaugural ball, Bond said, was word that the town of Polo in Caldwell County was without water and would he please do something about it.

Ashcroft announces major reorganization of office

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Auditor John D. Ashcroft announced today what he called a major reorganization of the auditor's office.

Ashcroft said a new systems and audit support division will replace the professional services division.

The new division will develop and suggest uniform accounting systems for use by different state agencies, Ashcroft said.

It also will be responsible for training all staff members and will provide statistical services for state and local agencies.

The county audit division will be renamed the County and Special Audit Division, Ashcroft said. The Division of External Affairs will be called the Governmental Services Division. It will be in charge of registering all bonds and filing budgets and financial statements.

"These reforms I have announced today are aimed at reducing waste and maximizing all available resources," Ashcroft said.

Tuesday, Ashcroft announced the appointments of George E. Bishop of Jefferson City as supervisor of the state audits division, and of Fred Watterson, Columbia, as supervisor of the systems audit support division.

Watterson, 36, is completing work for a doctorate at the University of Missouri and is a consultant for the U.S.

Selected by score in written knowledge and attitude examination taken by senior girls on Dec. 5, Miss Steward will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the annual contest. In addition, she remains eligible for state and national honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, to be chosen from all school winners in the state, will receive a $1,500 college scholarship. Ann Landers

—The bride should return gifts if wedding is stopped

Dear Ann Landers: I realize that customs vary according to locale and since I have been in America only seven months (from the United Kingdom) I wonder if you can tell me please if I am being hypercritical.

Several showers were given last month for a young bride whose wedding was cancelled suddenly, by mutual agreement. The bride's mother bought time on the local TV station to announce that the wedding was called off and would everyone who would like to have their shower and wedding gifts back please come and get it.

It seems to me that the gifts should have been returned. To have put the burden on the giver, I thought, was inquestionable taste. This is a sticky wicket to say the least and I would like to hear what you have to say.-- Around The Bend?

Dear Bend: Customs do vary according to locale, but I know of no place on the face of the earth where it is good manners to publicly request that friends come and get their gifts. The bride's mother should have returned them.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's brother and his wife came to visit the in- laws who live 30 miles from here. We drove back and forth four times the first weekend because they weren't up to coming to our place.

On Sunday, as we were leaving, my sister- in- law announced that she was driving over to my house "tomorrow" to do her laundry. I was flabbergasted. Sure enough, she showed up after I had left for work. My husband had taken the day off to bike- ride with his brother, so he let her in and instructed her on how to use the washer- dryer. He said she seemed to understand. Unfortunately she flooded the washer (three loads) onto our new kitchen carpet which had been laid the previous week.

When the brothers returned from biking, my sister- in- law was on the porch reading a book. No attempt had been made to mop up the water. She stated matter- of- factly that she had followed his instructions and our washer "must have a leak in it." When I returned home, there was no note. No call of apology came later. There was never an offer made to restore the carpet.

The next day she phoned to say she was coming over "tomorrow" and it was too bad our washer leaked. I asked her not to come until I had returned from work.

Now my husband is mad at me. He says my voice was "unfriendly" and I was not very hospitable. What do you say?-- Dampened Spirits

Dear Damp: I say you had every right to ask your sister- in- law to postpone her visit until you returned from work, if that's the way you wanted it. Your husband should have supported you and on this point without hesitation. Considering the circumstances, I'd say you were more of a lady than your sister- in- law.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope I'm not too late to reply to those women who are feeling sorry for themselves because their husband watched so much football on TV.

I fought that battle and lost. I tried joining him but I was bored stiff. I'm no good at faking it, so I decided to USE that time to do something that gave me satisfaction. Here's what I did: answered all the letters I had been putting off, cleaned drawers and cupboards, caught up on my mending, and best of all, I cooked and baked a freezer full of things that will come in handy for the next several months. You've said it so often, Ann, "When life hands you a lemon, make lemonade." I took your advice and I'm -- Happier Now

Dear Happier: Have a drink on me.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of hel? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill., 60654.

Mrs. Don J. Larks Jr.

Larks-Kavanagh

FARMINGTON, Mich. — Miss Kathryn Marie Kavanagh and Don J. Larks Jr. were married in a Dec. 1 candleight nuptial mass in the Mercy Center Chapel on the campus of Our Lady of Mercy High School where the bride attended high school.

The groom's uncle, Father Edward Tohme' of La Cross, Wis., officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Thomas Kavanagh of Detroit, Mich., and the granddaughter of Harry C. Blanton of Sikeston, Mo., and the late Mrs. Blanton. Larks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don J. Larks of Detroit.

The sanctuary of the chapel was decorated with four large seven- branched candelabras and the two large matching bowls of gold-bronze, yellow and white mums outlined by tall spikes of yellow and white gladiolas. The bowls of flowers rested on the topmost of the seven steps leading to the main altar of the chapel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of old ivory satin styled like those of a hundred years ago. The bodice was of rose lace and the dress featured a high mandarin collar and long bishop sleeves of the same lace over the ivory satin. The satin skirt fell straight from the high waist in front and was fully gathered in back in a bustle- type effect. The skirt was decorated in front with tiny nosegays of lace roses appliques and tied with tiny, ivory, satin ribbons. The bottom of the skirt was decorated with a wide border of the rose lace and finished off with delicate, tiny, accordian pleats of the ivory satin. The skirt swept into a formal chapel train in the back.

The bride wore a headpiece of a white rose with matching rosebuds which complemented her old-fashioned coiffure of curls. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of white and yellow roses, white carnations, babies' breath and ivy.

Miss Deda Kavanagh of New York was her sister's maid of honor. The other bridesmaids were also sisters of the bride and groom. They were Miss Maure en Daily Kavanagh of East Lansing, Mich., and Miss Rosemary Kavanagh, Mrs. Timothy Armbruster, Mrs. Timothy Clancy and Miss Lois Larks of Detroit.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore formal renaissance gowns of bronze-gold velvet which they made. The gowns had low cut bodices with wide cumberbunds of the same material inserted at the waist and long tight sleeves. The skirts of the gowns were fully gathered at the waists. Each carried a single, full-bloomed, long-stemmed yellow rose.

Robert Kennedy, cousin of the groom, was best man. Timothy Clancy, brother-in-law of the groom, John and Leonard Larks, brothers of the groom, and Tom and Terry Kavanagh, brothers of the bride, were groomsmen.

The mother of the bride, the former Patricia Blanton of Sikeston, wore a formal gown of straight simple lines. The bodice of the gown was black velvet trimmed with hot pink satin bands at the high neck and around the arms. The skirt was a black nylon print with hot pink and other complementary colors. She wore a white orchid corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a formal gown of apple green silk made with princess lines. It was worn with a matching green jacket trimmed with equins. The groom's mother wore a corsage of green orchids.

The organist and vocalist was George Assemoni. Among the songs, he sang were Shubert's "Ave Maria" in memory of Mrs. Harry Blanton, the bride's late grandmother, who sang the song many times as solosit of her church choir. While the song was sung, the bride placed a bouquet of white carnations on the side altar dedicated to Mrs. Blanton.

The altar boys were Stephen Toccolino and John Polisono.

A reception followed the wedding. The dinner and dance was held in the East Ballroom of the Mercy College Center in Detroit. The bridal party sat at a long table at one end of the room, and the remaining guests sat at smaller round tables. During the evening the new bride and her six sisters treated the guests to an entertainment surprise. They danced a spirited verision of an Irish jig.

The bride is a graduate of Maryville College of the Sacred Heart in St. Louis, Mo., where she majored in drama and had leading parts in several college plays. She has been working for a public relations firm in Washington, D. C., since her graduation in 1970 and has appeared on the stage there in featured roles with several repetory companies.

The groom is a graduate of Catholic Central High School and the University of Detroit where he majored in communications. After graduation he served in the U. S. Army. Among his duties was that of ceremonial announcer for the elite Old Guard of the army. At present, he is news editor for radio station WAVA in Washington, D. C.

The couple is making its home in Arlington, Va.

Out-of - town guests at the wedding were Harry C. Blanton and Mrs. Jean Klein of Sikeston; Mrs. J. P. Tlapek of Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Blanton of Joliet, Ill., Father Tohme' of La Crosse, Wis., Miss Margaret Tohme' of South Bend, Ind.; Mrs. Robert Shea and Mrs. George Schwedler of Bay City, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. John Schwedler of Port Austin, Mich.; and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Spritz and Larry Max of East Lansing, Mich.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Larks gave a rehearsal dinner at their home on Montrose Avenue in Detroit.

Mrs. Tim Armbruster and Mrs. Dick Tropp gave showers for the bride.

A bachelor party was given by the best man.

Cummins-Eakens

RISCO — Miss Deborah Ellen Eakens became the bride of Steven Cummins in a private wedding ceremony before family and close friends at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 20. The Rev. Delmar McNeely performed the double- ring service in First Baptist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Eakens, chose a street- length dress of white, crepe, textured cotton, featuring empire lines. The bodice was accented by a high standup collar trimmed with lace. The long sleeves were full and banded at the wrist and accented with lace. Lace also accented the front of the bodice, and pearl buttons centered the lace.

Her headdress was a white ribbon band trimmed with pearls and lily of the valley. She wore a corsage of white pompoms surrounding a red rosebud and accented with baby's breath and white satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a small antique gold pin.

The bride chose Doris Wood as her maid of honor. Miss Wood wore a street-length dress of white with tiny rosebud print. The empire lines were accented by pink picot- edge ribbon, which also formed her headdress, accented by lily of the valley. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The groom chose Elmer Bond III as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. Miss Nancy Cummins presided at the guest book and serving were Miss Kathy Higgs, Mrs. Regina Cummins and Mrs. Don Landers. The bride presented each of them with a corsage of red rosebuds against white net.

The bride's chosen colors of pink, white and red were used in the decor. Streamers cascaded above the bride's table, and were centered with a huge, white, honeycomb wedding bell. Pink tapers and red rosebuds in bud vases accented the table, where the three- tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, was served with pink punch.

The couple opened their wedding gifts, after which the bride changed to a mint-green pantsuit for their short wedding trip.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Eakens and is a 1972 graduate of Risco High School. She was employed by Brown Shoe Co. of Parma.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cummins Sr. and was also a 1972 graduate of Risco High School.

"Limited Resources, Limitless Demands: Humanists Talk About Preservation of The Environment," Dr. John Hinni, professor of biology, Dr. Stanley G. Diehl, professor of biology, and Dr. Leo Harris, associate professor of English.

After lunch in Dearmont Cafeteria, the small group discussions will resume. Those attending the forum may choose to join another group or remain with their morning group.

The conference will close with a short general session at 2:30 when Dr. Nichols will offer, "Observations And Insights."

Naylor Slips

The week of Jan 15- 20 has been the most disappointing for the Naylor Eagles high school basketball team and its coach, J.C. Morrow.

It all started on Tuesday, Jan. 16, when the Eagles was issued their first defeat of the season. Alton accomplished the feat, turning back the Daily Standard's third ranked NHS cagers, 86- 81.

But it didn't stop there, the Eagles lost their next encounter, this time dropping a 57- 56 decision to the Doniphan Dons to start a near streak after winning their first 12 of the campaign.

But the week came to a joyous end Saturday night as NHS turned back Ellsinore, 68- 60, to get back into the victory column.

The Eagles loss, coupled with Cape Central's defeat Friday night left the Advance Hornets as the only unbeaten team in Southeast Missouri. AHS has won 20 straight this season and 31 over the last two campaigns.

NEW YORK—Olympic swimming champion Mark Spitz was the overwhelming winner of The Associated Press award as the outstanding world male athlete of 1972.

Johnson blows the whistle

New Madrid's Robert Sims (42) draws a foul from official, Bob Johnson, for body contact with Matthews' David Kenedy. The Pirates upset the Indians in first round play of the New Madrid county tournament at Portageville Tuesday night.

PHS looks sharp

By FRED COPELAND

PORTAGEVILLE — Another upset dotted first round action in the New Madrid County basketball tournament here Tuesday night. Parma defeated Risco 45-43, and Matthews rolled by third seeded New Madrid, 62-51, in the B-team bracket while in varsity action, the host Portageville Bulldogs looked very impressive as they defeated Gideon, 63-49.

The first game of the evening, a junior varsity clash between Parma and Risco, proved to be the most exciting contest of the night. The lead changed hands numerous times throughout the game with neither team being able to break the game open. Parma led at the end of the first quarter, 8-6, but Risco scored 14 points in the second quarter to knot the score at the half 20-20. After a slow third quarter in which the junior Tigers from Risco won 8-6, the fourth seeded Parma quintet lived up to their rating by outscoring the Tigers 19-15 in the final period to take the victory, 45-43.

Dale Hardin and Dick Ramsey had 14 and 13 points apiece to lead the Parma attack. Wally Ramsley pumped in 22 points and Robert Peterson added 12 more tallies to pace the junior Tigers.

In the second contest of the night, the Matthews Pirates defeated the junior Indians from New Madrid, 62-51.

The junior Pirates simply outran the New Madrid quintet in the first half as they scored layup after layup after picking off errant Indian passes. The Pirates led 14-9 at the end of the first quarter and stretched their lead to 13 points, 34-21, at the half.

In the second half Coach Carroll Compton's Indians regained their poise and stayed with the Pirates but the game had already been decided and Coach Carl Ritter's junior Pirates came up with the upset victory over the third seeded Indians, 62-51.

Scotty Bewley paced the Matthews scorers with 20 points to take game honors. David Kennedy and Ken Lape added 16 and 13 points respectively for Matthews. New Madrid was paced by Robert Fowler with 13, Robert Sims with 12, and Craig Hunter with 11 points.

In the only varsity contest of the evening, James Holt pumped in 26 points to lead the Portageville Bulldogs to a 63-49 victory over Gideon. The 6' 1" forward was unstoppable as he hit jump shots from as far as 30 feet out as well as scoring from in close for the Bulldogs. If not for a cold third quarter in which the Bulldogs managed only six points the Portageville quintet would have turned the game into a rout.

Portageville led at the end of the first period, 21-14 and at the half, 39-28. After the cold third quarter in which Gideon was able to come within four points, 45-41, the Bulldogs pumped in 18 points in the final quarter while Gideon could manage only eight to give the Bulldogs the victory.

Robbie added 13 points and Warren Bishop had 12, nearly all of them coming from the 20 foot plus range. Curtis Coleman and Joe Murphy led Gideon in scoring with 17 and 13 points respectively.

Semi-final action will begin tonight with Lilbourn meeting Parma at 7:00 in the junior varsity contest and Parma facing New Madrid at 8:30 in a varsity clash.

Dons take Dogs

POPLAR BLUFF — The Sikeston Bulldogs were beaten Tuesday night by the Doniphan Dons. The contest ended with Doniphan pulling off the 55-54 upset of the third seeded Dogs, and Sikeston extending their losing streak to ten games.

A crowd of nearly four hundred shrieked and yelled every move made by the Dons, even though they were supposed to lose. By contrast, less than fifty showed up to cheer the Bulldogs, assuming the Big Red would pull off their first win of the season.

The Doniphan team was an aggressive one, and foul calls seemed always to be in the underdogs' favor. Pope Hunt was harassed all night under the goal, catching elbows to the head and body, yet he went to the charity line just twice. However, the officials cannot be blaned since the Bulldogs should have won the contest easily. Instead, they put forth a rather mediocre effort, and let the sure win slip from their grasp. The tempo of the game was set by Doniphan early. They dominated the backboards and were simply more aggressive than Sikeston, pickup up all loose balls and looking sharper than the larger, and supposedly quicker Bulldogs.

Although Sikeston led most of the first quarter, the Dons spurted to a three point lead at its conclusion, 14-11. The score remained the same throughout most of the rest of the game, with little variation.

Sikeston caught their tormentors in the second quarter several times. But, they were called for two technicals and Doniphan converted both.

By half, loose Sikeston play had pushed them four points behind the smaller Dons, 30-26.

The third quarter was the only one in which Sikeston claimed the edge. Although their play was still shakey, they managed to outscore Doniphan 14-10 to have the count knotted at 40-all entering the last period.

Doniphan scored first in the period, but several brilliant passes by the Sikeston pivotman (Hunt) pushed the Bulldogs into the lead. The Bulldogs went into a fullcourt press and got a three point lead. However, a three minute span without a basket for Sikeston spelled defeat. While Doniphan was unable to score because of the tenacious Sikeston defense, the Bulldogs were unable to pull away. Doniphan finally had the ball with less than 30 seconds to play. Waiting for the final shot, Jerry Braschler was fouled on an attempted steal by Ron Marks. Braschler went to the line, and connected on two free throws with six seconds to play, giving Doniphan the edge and the victory at 55-54.

Sikeston brought the ball quickly down court and fed Pope Hunt. With time running out, the 6-foot-4 senior shot from 15 feet out and missed, but on the shot he took a good hit from Tom Brummitt. The officials saw this one and awarded Pope two shots. There was a momentary misunderstanding, as the officials motioned the players off the court. The Sikeston players were disgusted, but they were assured that Hunt would get his shots -- it was just that no time would be left on the clock.

With the huge Doniphan crowd screaming and stomping the bleachers, Hunt bowed to the pressure and shot too softly on both attempts. With his head hung in defeat, Hunt was consoled and then led off the court by head coach N. P. McDaniel. At the same time Jeremiah Tucker, who had played his heart out wept openly while laying face down on the court.

The game was decided at the free throw line. The Dons, despite rough play, were called for just a dozen fouls, five less than the Bulldogs. However, they connected on 60 per cent of their tries, while Sikeston hit just 40 per cent. Sikeston shot 37 per cent from the floor, to 40 per cent for Doniphan and the Bulldogs out rebounded their foes, 37 to 30. In a turnover-filled game, there were 24 miscues by Doniphan and 22 by the losing Bulldogs.

The team played their hearts out in the contest. They were obviously pressing disappointed by the small crowd of Sikeston boosters who showed to support them. The team did not play well. They deserved to lose, but they deserve better support from their fans.

Hunt, despite missing the crucial free throws, was outstanding for Sikeston. Good blocking out by Doniphan kept him away from the boards, but he did score 20 points. Tucker was the only other Bulldogs in twin figures with ten. The senior forward added ten rebounds to lead the team.

Just five roundballers played for Doniphan, and four scored in twin figures. Kenny Hunt led the Dons with 14 points. His quick hands and good defensive pressure forced many Bulldog miscues in the contest. Jackie Rowe followed with 13 points and Jerry Braschler and Randy Farrin added ten each.

Thomas Jefferson served as the first U. S. secretary of state.

Hawks edge OHS

BENTON-- The Kelly Hawks pulled out from a tie in the closing minutes of the game Tuesday night to slip by Oran, 63- 57.

In third frame playing, Oran failed to pull any closer to the Hawks and Kelly had the lead by 10 points. The Eagles came from behind and with a minute to go, tied the game up. Fouls were costly in that last minute for Oran and Kelly pulled out the win.

Legislative 'hot line' in action in Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's citizens can now check on what their legislators are doing over a "hot line," Sen. William J. Cason D-Clinton, announced Tuesday.

Cason said the hot line had been established at more than 150 local libraries to link citizens to what was happening in the state capital.

"I searched for some means to let the people know what was about to happen so they could actually become part of what was happening," Cason said.

Cason, who is president pro tem of the Senate, said, with the help of the state librarian's staff he was able to set up a service based on the library's telephone reference service to provide the "hot line."

Cason said he found out the Legislative Research Committee prints daily computerized sheets that detail where every bill is in the legislative process, but it had been available only to the governor and top state officials previously.

"Now the 'hot line' is available to every Missourian who wants to know what is going on in his state government," Cason said.

"All he has to do is pick up his telephone and call the local public library to find out, for example, whether the governor has signed a bill or vetoed it, when a public hearing will be held on any bill or whether there are one or three bills to curb the drunken driver," Cason said.

The case of the educated hands

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The sudden emergence of massage parlors in a small town created a ticklish situation. Customers were limited to men and good looking gals were doing the massaging. Taking a dim view of possible hanky- panky, the authorities enacted an ordinance that prohibited the administering of massages by members of the opposite sex.

Immediately upon its enactment, Looey, who owned and operated several of the parlors, attacked the validity and impropriety of the ordinance in court.

"The impropriety isn't with the ordinance," responded the authorities, "it's with women giving massages to men. It rubs the wrong way and just isn't right. Since an ordinance may be enacted to protect the morals of the public, the ordinance is perfectly valid."

"No it isn't," was Looey's answer. "It's discriminatory. It deprives a woman from engaging in her vocation purely because of her sex. The fact is, my gals are the best in the business. They have more knowledge in their hands than most people have in their heads."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you invalidate the ordinance on the grounds that it discriminated against women and their educated hands?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the ordinance was not discriminatory since it applied to men and women alike. And, concluded the judge in effect, the barrier erected by the ordinance against immoral acts likely to result from too intimate familiarity of the sexes is a reasonalbe exercise of authority in protecting the moral welfare of a community.

COOKING-UP with Donna Satterfield

These cold, windy days aren't good for much, but I'll bet the kiddies will agree they're just right for baking cookies. And there are at least 43,000 different kinds to choose from.

Unfortunately, I cannot print all of them, so today's column features only a wee amount in the space available.

"Nothing' says lovin' like something from the oven ..."

QUICK OATMEAL COOKIES

½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup butter
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon milk
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon solda
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup quick rolled oats

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Measure the brown sugar and granulated sugar and cream with ½ cup butter. Combine and beat in until smooth the egg, vanilla and milk. Sift together the dry ingredients and add to first mixture. When beaten smooth, add the oats. Three-fourths cup chocolate chips or one teaspoon grated orange rind can be added.

Beat the mixture well. Drop cookies two inches apart on well- greased cookie sheet and bake until light brown.

BUTTERSCOTCH REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

1¼ cups firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup butter
1 beaten egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ to 1 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
½ cup nuts

Sift the sugar. Beat the butter until soft and add the sugar gradually. Blend these ingredients until very light and creamy. Mix in the egg and add vanilla. Sift before measuring the flour and resift with the salt and baking powder. Stir the sifted ingredients into the butter mixture. Add nuts or chocolate chips. Chill the roll for 12 to 24 hours and bake on a greased cookie sheet in a 400 - degree oven for 8-10 minutes. Dough may be dropped before chilling if you want to make up a batch immediately.

CHOCOLATE CRACKER KISSES

2/3 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips or 1 ounce chocolate, plus ¼ cup sugar
2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons crushed salted soda crackers

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Heat chocolate chips over hot water, let cool for about five minutes. Beat the egg whites until very stiff and add vanilla and cream of tartar. Beat in gradually the sugar and gently fold in the crackers and the cooled chocolate mixture. Drop the meringue - like dough, a teaspoon at a time, onto a well-greased cookie sheet. Bake about 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from oven when a glazed cap has formed and puffed up over a ¼-inch platform of the dough. Store, when cool, in a tightly closed container.

PECAN OR ANGEL SLICES

½ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream sugar and butter. Beat in egg and combine flour and salt. Work in vanilla. Use your hands to pat the dough evenly in a 9 x 12-inch pan. Bake for about 15 minutes. Spread with following mixture:

2 beaten eggs
1½ cups brown sugar
½ cup flaked coconut
1 cup chopped pecans
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

If preferred, omit the coconut and use 1½ cup of nuts instead. Bake the cake for about 25 minutes. When cool, ice with 1½ cups sifted confectioner's sugar thinned in a good spreading consistency with lemon juice. Cut into oblongs.

GINGERBREAD MEN

¼ cup butter
½ cup white or brown sugar
½ cup dark molasses
3½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup water

Blent until creamy the butter and sugar. Beat in molasses. Sift the flour and resift with other dry ingredients. Add the sifted ingredients to the butter mixture in about 3 parts, alternately with ¼ cup water if you roll the dough or 1/3 cup if you model it.

You may have to work in the last of the flour mixture with your hands if you are not using an electric mixer. If you are satisified with a cruede approximation, roll a ball for a head, a larger one for the body and cylinders for the arms and legs. Stick them together on a greased pan to form a fat boy or girl. Be sure to overlap and press these dough elements together carefully, so they will stay in one piece after baking. If you want something looking less like primitive man, roll the dough first to any thickness you like. A good way to do this is to grease the bottom of a baking sheet and to roll the dough directly onto it. Now, cut out your figures, either by using a floured cookie tin or by making a pattern of your own.

Decorate before baking with small raisins, bits of candied cherry, redhots, decorettes, citron, etc., indicating features and buttons.

Bake the cookies for eight minutes or longer, according to their thickness in a 350-degree oven. Test them for doneness by pressing the dough with your finger. If it springs back after pressing, the gingerbread cookies are ready to be cooled on a rack. Stir in a small bowl, to make a paste:

¼ cup confectioner's sugar
a few drops of water

You may add a few drops of vegetable coloring.

Apply the icing with a toothpick or a small knife for additional garnishes -- caps, hair, mustaches, belts, shoes, etc.

Farmers in the United States harvest more than 286,000 acres of watermelons each year.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Catalogues Make Nice Booster Chair for Tots

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—When my large thick catalogues became out-dated I taped two of them together and covered the entire thing with pretty adhesive backed paper. This made an excellent booster chair for my grandson to sit on at the table. I wipe it off when the table is cleared and then store it away for his next visit.—DORIS

Polly's Problem

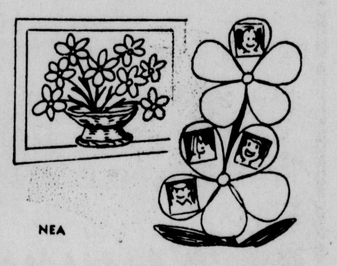
DEAR POLLY—I hope some reader will tell me how I can clean my wedding rings. I wear them constantly and they get very dirty as I cook and clean. I find ammonia does a fair job but not like the professional cleaning by a jeweler. I would have this done by a jeweler but dislike leaving them there for a day or two. Hope someone can help me.—VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY—One of My Pet Peeves is with people who drive with their headlights on during holidays in the daytime. This only adds to the glare and confusion of traffic and we already have too much of that.—MRS. E. W.

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. L. B. who wanted to make a family tree as an anniversary gift. Last Christmas I made a photo-family tree for my grandparents which was easy and fun to do and much appreciated. I bought a large, wide picture frame and covered a piece of cardboard, to fit into it, with beige burlap. I bought a straw basket which I cut in half and hooked to the burlap. I also bought green velvet stems and leaves and two shades of orange felt. Flower petals were cut out of the felt—one shade for grandchildren and one for great-grandchildren. These petals were large enough so a tiny snapshot of each child could be glued on a petal. Velvet stems to the flowers represented the parents and the flowers branched out from the proper stem in the order of their births. The first-born parent's stem was on the left and so on all around. Leaves placed on the stems represented those who had married into the family. Extra pictures could be stored in the basket. This photo tree could be made of any material and its size is dependent on the number of pictures to be used. I can assure you this was easier to make than to describe. New flower faces can always be added, too. A coat of varnish on frame and basket added an extra glow.—SONIE



DEAR POLLY—For breakfast my husband and I like perked coffee but he likes his weak and I like it strong. To make us both happy I have learned to make weak perked coffee and then I add half a teaspoon of instant coffee to my cup and get the extra strength I like. —VENICE

(POLLY: or he could add hot water to strong coffee.)

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Poor Charles, he so loves to fiddle around in his roses and tomatoes, and I am always picking on the sweet ole thing, so I really hoarded my pennies and bought my fella a greenhouse as a peaceoffering. Honest — a nine by twelve free standing greenhouse now stands sedately in our backyard, just waiting to be filled with gorgeous plants to be carried indoors to be enjoyed by me. I mean you might as well get some kind of a return on your money! Course, if I am to be completely honest, I must admit this idea was prompted a bit when Charles casually let slip one day that he was planning on using the library table in the sunroom as a basis on which to put his shelves of dirt to start his flower seeds in. Well frankly, I almost had a stroke, can you imagine that? I would have had an acre of dirt, two little boys and a dog in hog heaven, mud pies and heaven knows what, along with seeds being sprouted everywhere from the basement to the attic — thus, the idea of the greenhouse came to mind. Do you suppose he was brilliant enough to let that remark slip intentionally and thus planted his first seed in my mind to germinate into just such an idea? If so, what a coup — I'm going to have to keep a more watchful eye on that boy. Anyway, now that he has his little goody, instead of being grateful and sweet, he's turned into a regular snarling beast, and when his sister wanted to bring over some of her sicker plants, and my neighbor started over with a few slightly yellow green things, and I too had been nursing along some ill flora and fauna, he turned nasty — nasty!! He turned away all of our poor dying babies, had a stroke over an avacodo seed we had started sprouting for him, and ugly thing that he is, went right out and bought a key & padlock for HIS greenhouse and informed us all he was going to play in there all by himself. Stingy ole goat. I hope all his plants get the dry rot!!!

What's cooking at snacktime?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When snacktime comes around, a lot of cooks are likely to use ready-to-bake refrigerated biscuits in various ways. Packed in small cartons and picked up at a food market, the biscuits lend themselves to original home-kitchen treatment.

The following recipe gives one cook's way of rerolling the biscuits and filling them with cheddar cheese and deviled ham. In this guise they're good to serve with morning coffee, afternoon tea or a before-dinner drink. Good, too, to offer with a soup-and-salad lunch or a chowder-and-salad supper. This recipe makes 10 snacks; it may be doubled.

DEVILED HAM SNACKS

1 package (9 1/2 ounces) refrigerated flaky buttermilk biscuits (10 biscuits)
10 strips cheddar cheese, each 2 1/2 inches long and 1/2 inch wide
1 can (2 1/4 ounces) deviled ham
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon tomato-base barbecue sauce
1 tablespoon cornflake crumbs

With a rolling pin, shape biscuits into ovals that are 3 inches long and 2 inches wide.

Place a strip of cheese in the center of each biscuit and cover cheese with deviled ham. Wrap dough to enclose filling and seal edges by pinching dough together.

DEVILED HAM SNACKS — They're made quickly from refrigerated ready-to-bake biscuits.

Place rolls, seam side down, next to each other in a greased square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches); there will be 2 rows, 5 biscuits in each.

In a small skillet over low heat melt butter and stir in barbecue sauce. Brush tops of rolls with this mixture. Sprinkle with cornflake crumbs.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until golden-brown — 15 minutes.

Kennett serviceman reacts to peace

SAIGON (AP) — "We didn't want to say anything. We wanted to holler and scream at the same time, but we didn't want to miss anything. It kind of gives you cold chills."

That was how Spec. 4. Tim Hall of Kennett, Mo., expressed his feelings and those of a handful of other American soldiers who gathered around a radio at the Bien Hoa air base Wednesday to hear President Nixon's announcement of an end to the long war. About 23,000 American servicemen still remain in South Vietnam.

Hall observed that the uppermost matter in the minds of most GIs who served in Vietnam over the years — the length of time left on their tours — suddenly had become meaningless.

"I've been here 10 months and I've got 64 days to go, but we don't worry about that stuff any more," he said. He and the other Americans left are to be gone from Vietnam within 60 days under terms of the accord.

Open meetings bill could raise esteem of state government

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The sponsor of the open meetings bill told the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday night he thought his bill would help "dispel the myth that something sinister is going on in the legislature."

Rep. James Baker, D-Kansas City, said he did not think the bill would cause "any great hardship on any public body and it will raise the esteem of government in the eyes of the public."

Testifying for more than one hour, Baker said, he was not satisfied with bills drawn up by the Citizens Lobby and Common Cause, two groups campaigning for open meetings.

He said other bills drafted called for recording of all votes by government organizations and this was not practical.

"Recording votes would slow up government bodies like the House, even a vote to adjourn would have to be recorded and recording also precludes any form of voice vote," Baker said.

In response to questioning, Baker said "my bill was not intended to include party caucuses."

He said party caucuses were not public governmental bodies.

Several members of the committee questioned Baker on whether requiring public bodies to notify both the public and the news media did not leave open meetings at the hands of the press.

"They're going to have to rely on the news media, whether they like it or not, but in my experience that has not been a problem," Baker said.

Rep. Bob Griffin, D-Cameron, asked Baker if he thought a court could hold a public body responsible if the news media did not publish a notice of a meeting the organization gave them.

"I don't believe that any responsible judge would find fault with any organization who submitted their notices to the press," he said. "If the news media didn't publish them the fault would lie with the media."

Baker said he did not include any provision requiring the press to publish notices of meetings because it would involve freedom of the press.

Baker also explained that under his bill courts could file injunction suits against any organization that failed to comply with the law.

He said other bills which said any action taken at closed meetings would be void was too strong.

His bill calls for records of organizations to be made public for information or duplication, but does not require bodies who are not keeping records now to begin keeping them.

Carl Wilson, chairman of the Citzens Lobby, said he favored the Baker bill over a Senate version which allows "private discussions." He said the section allowing private discussions cripples the Senate version.

He criticized Baker's bill for not requiring a recording of votes but said he still supported it.

Wilson was carried out of a closed session of the House Appropriations Committee hearing earlier Tuesday when he refused to leave.

Jeff City bank will stay main depository

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Central Missouri Trust Bank of Jefferson City will remain the depository of the state's main general fund account, James I. Spainhower, state treasurer, said Tuesday.

Spainhower said the Commerce Bank of Kansas City and the Mercantile Trust Bank of St. Louis will continue to serve as secondary banks for state deposits.

Spainhower, a Democrat, said the Central Trust Bank which has handled the state's main account for 60 years now has a balance of about $14.5 million in state funds.

Under state law, the governor and the auditor also must approve banks where state funds are not kept.

Spainhower said he thought Republican Gov. Christopher S. Bond would not oppose his selections.

Spainhower said he thinks balances of state money have grown too large in the past. He said since taking office this month he has withdrawn $25 million in state funds deposited in banks and reinvested the money in U.S. Treasury bills.

Spainhower said he plans to initiate studies to determine whether state funds can be used more effectively and to establish cost accounting procedures so he can determine the cost to a bank of handling state accounts.

He said no such procedure now exists.

Spainhower said balances in the three banks would probably remain about the same until his studies have been completed.

Mercantile Trust Bank has about $2.8 million in state funds and the Commerce Bank has about $400,000, he said.

Shelton requests new building fund be kept alive

MALDEN — Phillip Shelton, director of Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, requested that the City Council authorize Mayor Sparrel Davis and City Clerk Roscoe Thornton to sign a resolution no later than Jan. 23 to keep the federal grant request for a new community building alive.

Shelton presented the resolution to the city council Monday night.

A group of senior citizens present requested the council to use some federal revenue-sharing money to provide transportation, such as a bus, for Malden senior citizens. Mayor Davis asked the council to withhold a decision until after a meeting at Sikeston today to discuss how revenue-sharing money should be spent. He assured the senior citizens that the matter would be studied by the council.

Tom Steward, representing Motorola Radio Service discussed a service contract with the council. Steward and the chief of police are to inspect all city equipment, and a bid price for servicing is to be made.

The Rev. James Fair informed the council he plans to build a new church at 900 Kimball St. and asked if there are any restrictions on building at the site. The mayor said there are no objections as of now, but the zoning commission is setting up regulations requiring at least two acres of ground for each church being built.

Mark Bostin reported on a new location for a city dog pound, and he is to report on plans and costs for the building at a later council meeting.

Davis discussed a proposal to rip out a curb on the north side of the old school building and on the south side of Cleveland Street to allow buses to park off the street.

Street Commissioner Frank Powell requested permission from the council to let the trade school overhaul the 1964 truck he is using. The council granted the request.

Davis informed the council that he had looked over the petition for city manager form of government, presented at an earlier council meeting by the Jaycees and had appointed Bill Smithson, chairman and Ed Rayburn and Phil Santie to canvass the petitions for any irregularities.

Bill Smithson, Leroy Evans and Ed Rayburn were appointed to arrive at a solution to the problem of gasoline service for city trucks.

City Attorney Gordon Fritz informed the council that the Dunklin County Circuit Court had approved annexation of the Cohen- Howell addition. Permission was granted by the council to let the board of public works go ahead with plans to run water lines to the subdivision.

The council discussed the easement between Bland and Stokeland Streets, and a motion was approved to send a letter to Ray Moreau, chairman of the board of public works, requesting the board to move highline poles to the side of the easement.

Bill Smithson was appointed to the planning and zoning commission to replace Jim Corder, who resigned earlier.

Feb. 1 was the date set for a meeting with all councilmen and members of the board of public works as well as supervisors of all city departments.

Teachers strike in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All of the city's 167 public schools remained closed today as a strike called by two teacher organizations entered its third day.

Although the charge was denied, officials said the closings were due to "harrassment, damage to property and physical assaults" by some teachers.

A school board statement did not elaborate, and police said there had been no arrests Tuesday despite minor skirmishes at scenes of picketing by the organizations.

About three-quarters of the city's more than 4,000 teachers were on strike, primarily because of the school board's refusal to grant mid-year pay raises.

Seventy-four of the schools were open Tuesday, but Supt. Clyde C. Miller said they will be closed also "until there is assurance that the laws under which the board must operate will be respected."

Apparently ignored by the striking teachers were copies of a temporary restraining order prohibiting the walkout. The copies of the order were given to pickets at a south side elementary school.

Sheriff Raymond Percich, who was assisted by deputies in issuing the copies, said the serving of the orders to some teachers served the purpose for all as class action.

Vandalism at an elementary school Monday was estimated at $7,800 in repairs and cleanup alone but Miller said there were [illegible] of vandalism [illegible] A hearing on the temporary injunction against the strike Tuesday and on contempt citations being considered against its leaders is scheduled for Thursday.

A National Educational Association counsel, Robert Chanin, predicted court proceedings could lead to a lengthy battle. "You solve the problem which precipitated the strike," he said, "and you don't do that with injunctions or with contempt."

Thousands view Johnson's casket

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — They came by the thousands and thousands, through the night and into the early morning hours to view the flag-draped casket of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

For hour upon hour, the Johnson family — Lady Bird, the sorrowing widow, her two daughters and their husbands — stood by the closed casket and shook hands with the mourners.

"Thank you for coming," Luci Johnson Nugent said time and again as tears rimmed her eyes. The family finally went to LBJ Ranch, 65 miles to the west, about 8 p.m.

Johnson, 64, died Monday of a severe coronary artery disease, and his body was to be flown on Air Force One to Washington today for funeral services and last honors from the capital he once ruled and loved.

President Nixon declared Thursday a national day of mourning.

In announcing Tuesday night that a cease-fire agreement had been reached in the Vietnam conflict, Nixon said of Johnson, "There was nothing he cared about more deeply than achieving a lasting peace in the world."

Johnson missed the long-looked for peace that eluded him in five years as president by one day. Many put his failure to end the war as his life's greatest disappointment.

As the thousands here walked slowly by the Johnson bier through the night, all had to wait for hours before they could into the Great Hall of library.

By 2 a.m. today, when 28,427 had passed the electric counters, the line dwindled to a trickle.

The body will be flown back from Washington to the LBJ Ranch Thursday.

Evangelist Billy Graham, Johnson's longtime friend, will officiate at final rites before the man from the Pedernales is buried next to his mother in the oak-studded graveyard in Texas' hill country.

The invocation at the burial services will be given by the Rev. Father Wunibald Schneider, Roman Catholic priest at Stonewall, whose church Johnson often attended.

Former secretary of the Treasury and ex-Texas governor John Connally will make brief remarks at the graveside. The public burial, with full military honors, will be concluded with a song by Anita Bryant, and the flag from the coffin will be presented to the widow by Brig. Gen. James U. Cross, Johnson's former military aide and ex-pilot of Air Force One.

Woman hurt in wreck

MARSTON — Naomi Powell, 42, of New Madrid received injury to her left eye at 11:40 p.m. Tuesday when she tried to avoid a car making a U-turn on Interstate 55 four miles south of Marston, but struck the car in the right side. The car was driven by Roger Conklin, 22, of Marston.

Mrs. Powell was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

One treated

One accident patient was treated Tuesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

POW wives reaction

'Like a dream'

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Navy wives whose husbands are prisoners of war had more tears than smiles as they heard President Nixon announce a cease-fire agreement for Vietnam.

"I never really thought we'd hear this. It's like something you dream about and never think is really going to happen," said Charlotte Christian, whose husband has been a POW for more than six years.

Mrs. Christian, sitting on the floor of her den with her three youngsters clustered around, cried quietly when she heard Nixon's announcement.

She wept again when the President said all POW's would be home within 60 days.

"It's anticlimatic," said another of the 21 wives in this Navy base town whose husbands are either prisoners or missing in action.

Louise Mulligan, whose husband has been a prisoner more than seven years, said, "I guess it's finally going to be over. I hope it is. But too much has happened. After seven years of suppressing your emotions, I can't jump up and down."

The attractive, gray-eyed woman, who heard the news with four of her six sons, said, "President Nixon said 'peace with honor.'

"I don't think it's peace with honor. I'm sorry. I don't think those poor people — the South Vietnamese — are going to see peace....

Both wives are concerned about their friends whose husbands are missing in action and might not return. "For us, it's the beginning; for them, it's the end," said Mrs. Christian.

"When my husband gets here, I'm going to be very excited," said Mrs. Mulligan of her husband, Cmdr. James A. Mulligan Jr. "But I have so many friends whose husbands aren't coming home.

"I wish with all my heart that the war had been worth those men dying ... that we had accomplished something. It (the end) had to come, but I think it should have come a few years ago. We pay the price. Our men pay the price."

When Mike Christian of Huntsville, Ala., was shot down in April 1967, he was a lieutenant (junior grade). He's now a lieutenant commander.

His eldest child, Debbie, 13, said simply, "I'm happy."

Asked if she felt she would know her father, Debbie, who was 7 when he became a prisoner, replied, "I don't know. I can't remember anything about him.

"My husband left babies. He's coming home to a house full of girls, to televisions playing constantly, radios, phones, pianos," said Mrs. Christian. "The house is very alive. It may take him some adjustment."

U.S., Hanoi reveal peace package

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington and Hanoi unveiled today the terms of an intricate peace accord to end America's longest war, and negotiator Henry A. Kissinger expressed confidence a Saturday ceasefire in South Vietnam would later spread across all of Indochina.

Both Kissinger and his North Vietnamese negotiating counterpart said there were no secret peace terms.

The chief U.S. negotiator made these other major points in his 90-minute White House news conference:

—About 145,000 North Vietnamese troops remain in South Vietnam, but Kissinger said their numbers "should over a period of time be subject to considerable reduction" because they cannot be reinforced, resupplied or replaced.

—The release of American prisoners of war held in North Vietnam and Laos will begin by mid-February in Hanoi and will be completed at 15-day intervals during the 60-day period when U.S. troops are being withdrawn from the South.

—The political independence of South Vietnam is guaranteed and its future form, including the fate of President Nguyen Van Thieu's government, will be determined, without outside interference, by the South Vietnamese themselves.

—A National Council on National Reconciliation and Concord will be organized among the South Vietnamese themselves on a three-part basis solely to organize the elections and implementation of the agreement, not to act in any way as a coalition government.

—The demilitarized zone continues as a temporary military demarcation line which cannot be violated under any circumstances by military forces of either side, Kissinger said. Neither Cambodia or Laos can be used as infiltration routes or as bases for foreign troops, he said.

—The agreement in no way restricts U.S. military forces off Vietnam's shores or in Thailand, he said. "The deployment would be more geared to the war situation" than to anticipation of an established peace, Kissinger added.

—Discussion of U.S. economic aid to all of Indochina, including North Vietnam, will come "only after the signature of the agreement and after its implemention is well advanced," the negotiator said.

Kissinger also forecast an eventual "de facto cease-fire" in Cambodia, a neighboring country drawn into the long Indochina conflict.

The 12-page agreement, to be signed Saturday before the Vietnam cease-fire takes effect at 7 p.m. EST that day, does not call for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South—but it does call for all foreign troops to leave Laos and Cambodia.

Expanding on stated terms of the agreement, Kissinger told a White House news conference that U.S. prisoners held in North Vietnam and Laos will be turned over to American medical personnel in Hanoi at two-week intervals while U.S. forces withdraw from South Vietnam.

Kissinger said the United States seeks "a peace that heals," and one that will last. He said the U.S. aim is to move from hostilities to normalization and conciliation with North Vietnam.

"...We believe that under conditions of peace we can contribute throughout Indochina to a realization of the humane aspirations of all the people of Indochina," he said, "and we will in that spirit perform our traditional role of helping people realize these aspirations in peace."

The presidential adviser said the U.S.-Hanoi agreement forbids the use of base areas in Laos and Cambodia to infiltrate Communist troops into South Vietnam.

He said it is "our firm expectation that within a short period of time there will be a formal cease-fire in Laos ... leading to the withdrawal of all foreign forces" and ending use of the country as a corridor for infiltration.

The Cambodian situation is more complex, Kissinger said. But he added that he expects a "de facto cease-fire will come into being" in that country within a time frame "related to the execution of this agreement."

Kissinger would not elaborate on the Laotian and Cambodian cease- fires he forecast.

Two men admit murder plot, deny shooting

DONIPHAN, Mo. (AP) — Two Van Buren, Mo., men have admitted participating in the plot to kill three members of a Grandin family but have denied roles in the shootings, Ripley County Prosecuting Attorney James Hall said Tuesday.

Hall said Jerry W. Rector, 22, and Lloyd Cowin, 21, two of three men charged with murder, admitted Saturday night, during a coroner's inquest, to participating in the abduction and slaying of the three.

A third man charged in the case, Dallas R. Delay, 33, of Valles Mines, Mo., did not testify at the inquest, Hall said.

The bodies of Robert R. Kitterman, 43; his wife Bertha, 38, and their daughter Roberta, 17, were found tied to trees last Wednesday, an hour after a bizarre kidnap and extortion plot unfolded.

Each was shot in the head. Kitterman had earlier taken $9,811 from the Bank of Grandin, where he was president, as apparent ransom.

Hall said the coroner's inquest held three days after the slayings was not closed to the public but was not publicized because of concern for the security of those charged.

Rector and Cowin told of their parts in kidnaping the Kittermans and of collecting the ransom, Hall said, but also testified Delay produced a gun when the three arrived at a remote, wooded area.

All three men are charged with murder, bank robbery and kidnaping. They were charged Monday at a hearing before Ripley County Magistrate Willie L. Dodd, who denied bond.

N. Madrid men held for Indiana slaying

GOSHEN, Ind. — Three New Madrid, Mo., men are in the Elkhart County jail charged with the Jan. 14 murder of Henry Mook, 57, of Goshen during a burglary of Keene Products Inc. in Middlebury.

Formally charged with murder in Elkhart County Circuit Court on Jan. 18 were Albert Louis (Butch) Williams, 28; his brother, Stephen Wayne Williams, 22; and a half brother, Willard Leslie (Donnie) Kimball III, 18. Kimball was charged with being an accessory after the fact.

According to Sgt. Sid Fish of the Indiana State Police, the three men beat Mook, a night watchman at the plant, stabbed him with a screwdriver and slit his throat before burglarizing the building. The men said they had only intended to knock the guard out.

The brothers failed to report to work the next day at Keene Products, and the three men reportedly fled to Coleman, Ala. On their return to Indiana, they were arrested by Indiana State Police and Elkhart County sheriff's department.

A grand jury hearing into the case was scheduled today.

Stephen Williams was sentenced on Dec. 18 in New Madrid County Court to 10 years following a plea of guilty to a rape charge. He was placed on probation without supervision.

Bogus bills passed

Two counterfeit $20 bills turned up Monday in Sikeston, police said today.

The bills were used to pay for purchases of alcoholic beverages at the Wagon Wheel tavern and Baugher's liquor store, both on West Malone Avenue.

No description was available of the man who passed the bill at the liquor store, but the cashier at the Wagon Wheel described him as a white male, about 6 feet tall, with gray and black hair, and wearing a black suit. The cashier said he was in a car with three other men.

Lt. Leonard Campbell said the bills were printed on poor quality paper, but otherwise were good-looking. The serial number on both bills is H34906137A.

School year is half complete

One week into the second semester, teacher Pam Loveless explains paper writing to first graders at Lee Hunter Elementary School. She reports that most first graders make their greatest improvement during the middle of the school year and that improvement in reading is the highest. Miss Loveless says all 26 students are working hard and looking forward to the three remaining vacations, Washington's Birthday, teachers meeting and Easter, before the school year ends on May 31. ## Malone won't stand trial

John Malone, who allegedly fleeced Sikeston businessmen for over $11,000 in 1971, will not have to stand trial, Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig ruled yesterday.

Craig agreed with Malone's court-appointed attorney, Gene Yokley that the lengthy delay in bringing him to court violated Malone's constitutional right to a speedy trial.

Malone will return to Sandstone federal prison in Minnesota where he still must serve several years of a federal sentence for transporting a stolen car across state lines. He will be eligible for parole in two months, however. He has been in jail since 1971 when he was arrested in Milwaukee while posing as an FBI agent.

Yokley argued that Malone should be released because he was not returned to Scott County quickly after his federal trial.

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore argued against Yokley's motion, but failed.

Yokley said he thought it was the first time such a ruling had been made in the county.

Moore said former Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore had difficulty gathering evidence and prying Malone out of the federal prison.

Malone arrived in Sikeston in 1971, claiming to represent the Kirkpatrick and O'Donnell heavy equipment leasing company. He said his firm was planning on setting up offices in the city.

Malone opened an office at the Dunn Hotel, hired secretaries, discussed contracts with oil companies, and rented desks, tables, filing cabinets, dictating equipment and typewriters.

Then one morning in February, he loaded the office equipment into a rental trailer and drove away in a new automobile allegedly purchased with bogus checks.

It was for transporting that car across state lines that he was sent to Sandstone.

Sikeston officials compiling new patrol information

City officials are compiling new information on the Sikeston site for the new highway patrol Troop E headquarters in another effort to gain support from Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond and Col. Samuel Smith, new highway patrol superintendent.

Bond asked for the reports after a meeting Tuesday in Jefferson City with five Sikeston representatives. The report will contain information not previously stressed by the city in its campaign to secure the headquarters.

Mayor Frank Ferrell, who attended Tuesday's meeting, said he hoped Bond and Smith would review the information on Friday when Smith returns from Washington, D. C.

Ferrell said he didn't know how much good the information would do, "but at least they're going to look into it."

In the report, the city will point out that Cape Girardeau Municipal Airport, just a 20-minute drive from Sikeston, is planning to install a new instrument landing approach system.

The report will also say that the state will save money by building in Sikeston, if a so-called satellite headuqarters is to be built. Those offices would be on the other side of the troop zone from the main headquarters. A proposal to build a separate satellite headquarters is reportedly being considered, in addition to the new main headquarters.

The report will say that if the main headquarters are built in Sikeston, the patrol can use its old headquarters for its satellite office. However, if the main headquarters are built in Poplar Bluff, the state will also have to build offices outside of Poplar Bluff.

The report will also say that if the Sikeston site is rejected, or the decision is postponed beyond Jan. 28, new bids will have to be called for, adding to the expense of the building. The bids already called on the Sikeston site will expire on Jan. 28.

The report will also point out that Sikeston is the communications hub of the Bootheel.

Voters approve bond issue

BLOOMFIELD — Voters here Tuesday approved both a $250,000 bond issue to construct a new water treatment and distribution system and a $150,000 bond issue to provide funds for expansion of Elder Manufacturing Co. facilities.

The water system bond was approved by a vote of 407 to 42, and the plant expansion issue passed by 423 to 25, according to Mayor J. C.

See No. 1 Page 12.

Committee to study landfill

BLOOMFIELD— The County Court, mayors, and city officials of Stoddard County met Tuesday night at the courthouse to discuss what to do about a sanitary landfill program, which must be completed and in operation by July 30.

All open pit dumping must be stopped by that date, and only approved sanitary landfills can be used. Each city must adopt some feasible plan or be subject to being fined for each day that a landfill is not completed and in operation.

The biggest problem for the group seemed to be financing the landfill after an approved site has been selected. Mayor Willis Conner of Dexter, unofficial chairman of the discussion session, said he hoped to use some of the revenue- sharing money received by Dexter as a beginning on the project.

The majority of the group seemed to favor the idea of the County Court plan, with the court determining who could use a centrally located landfill, probably between Dexter and Bloomfield.

Among several suggestions for financing the landfill was a plan in which each individual household would have a $1.50 to $2 a month user fee added to its water bill for collection and hauling of refuse to the landfill site.

It was pointed out that this would require rural residents to haul to the site for themselves and, in all probability, would cause littering, as many people would simply dump refuse in ditches, gullies and along highways.

After several hours of discussion and no action, attorney Paul McGhee of Dexter suggested that Ermer Garner, presiding judge of the County Court, be appointed chairman of a committee to include each city mayor and one member from each township to study the matter further and report suggestions at a later date to the entire group.

The group will meet Feb. 6 in the courthouse.

Arson is suspected in house fire

IDALIA — Arson is suspected in a fire at 7:24 p.m. Tuesday which destroyed the home of J. H. Gilooly one mile east of Idalia on Route E.

No one was at home at the time of the fire.

Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser said today that anyone who has information regarding any person or persons seen in the area between 6: 45 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. should contact the sheriff's department.

James appointment goes back to Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The on-again, off-again appointment of Robert L. James as commissioner of administration bounced back to the Missouri Senate today.

The Senate was expected to discuss James' appointment after the rules committee decided Tuesday night to send the appointment back to the Senate for the second time with a recommendation that it be returned to Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

After brief debate Monday, the Senate hedged on Bond's request and sent the appointment back to committee.

At issue is whether James, 32, meets statutory qualifications of having lived in the state five full years before his appointment Jan. 15 and whether he must have a masters degree in public administration as the law says.

James, formerly in the auditor's office, has a degree in business administration. He has not lived in the state five straight years although he was born in Webb City. Bond maintains James meets one constitutional test for gubernatorial appointees, and that is residence in the state for at least one year.

Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, has introduced a bill to change the law setting up the office of administration so James could qualify.

Meanwhile, the Senate received a recommendation that Harry Wiggins, who was chairman of the George McGovern Democratic presidential campaign in Missouri, be confirmed as the new general counsel for the Public Service Commission.

The Senate also was expected to begin debate on an open meetings bill which cleared the rules committee Tuesday after two hours of debate.

A controversial clause saying closed meetings may be used "only for the purpose of discussion" was changed by the sponsor, Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, to read that meetings could be closed on for discussion on matters of public business that had been previously discussed in an open meeting.

Missouri has an open records law but no law insuring open meetings of governmental bodies.

Cason's bill would require that school boards, city councils, legislative committees and others be kept open. There is no provision for punishment if the law is violated. The only recourse would be by circuit court injunction upon petition by citizens.

Among those objecting to the sentence allowing any kind of closed discussion was Carl Wilson, chairman of the Citizen's Lobby.

A few minutes earlier, Wilson had been carried out physically, without resistance, from a meeting of the House Appropriations Committee.

The House committee meeting was closed to newsmen. House rules provide executive sessions at any time at the request of the chairman or other legislative leaders.

Most of the appropriations committee members were present. Only two, Reps. Eric Fink, R-Ballwin, and James G. Baker, D-Kansas City, voted for him to stay, Wilson said.

Wilson was the leader of an unsuccessful petition drive last summer to get a constitutional amendment requiring open meetings.

Other amendments to Cason's bill provided for closed meetings on records already closed by law—such as grand juries and juvenile court proceedings—and eliminates recording of abstention votes. Committee members felt the public could easily find out who did not vote or who was absent.

Another amendment provided for recording of votes if a roll call is taken.

Several newsmen, including Bob Priddy, news director of radio station KLIK in Jefferson Citv. testified.

Priddy said the bill should include a provision allowing television cameras and tape recorders.

Several committee members questioned whether a lot of TV camers would be too distracting.

"You can always move to a larger room," Priddy said.

Mary Ann Yates of Columbia, representing the Missouri League of Women Voters, said the league's consensus was that all votes should be made public.

"We'd never get any work done," said Sen. A. Clifford Jones.

Joines pointed out that it costs $12 for each roll call, and with 163 members in the House, it would be folly to take a roll call on each of the hundreds of meaningless courtesy resolutions that are passed.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Add to your vocabulary of ancient languages, words "please" and "thank you."

Nearly anyone who has anything to do with retail shopping or retail selling would agree that grocery advertising in newspapers is highly effective.

To the consumer, the grocery advertising represents savings in time, money, and transportation costs. To the grocer, the advertising means greater volume and savings in sales' costs, storage, and wholesale prices.

Because the effects of newspaper advertising by grocery stores can be noted so quickly and objectively, experienced grocers have little doubt concerning its value. Thus, grocery advertising is consistently a dominating feature of newspapers.

Retailers handling other types of products cannot employ methods for the immediate testing of advertising as grocers use; however, other retailers do stand to gain the same benefits when they employ the techniques used by the more alert grocers.

Savings in the form of lower wholesale prices, losses from surplus and dated stock, sales' costs, and storage expenses may be gained through effective advertising by any type of retail firm.

The store which is forced to sell clothing in post-season give-aways has lost money because it did not make effective use of advertising when demand existed. Clothing loses value when it is not sold just as perishable foods do.

The variety store or the hardware store are in identical situations. Failure to inform the public concerning products on hand during periods of seasonal demands, results in losses which follow from storage and out- of season sales of dated products. Or, it may result in loss of business to competition which has given the public more complete information.

THE TRAVELLING WOMAN

Now that Women's Lib is being taken more seriously — by men and women alike — women are taking their place in the hectic world of executive responsibility. And this means more nerve-shattering business trips as well. When a woman travels she needs to remember those personal items that help her look her best (hair dryer, makeup, and other grooming aides) and to feel her best. To really make business travel care-free, take only packable, washable knits, and color- coordinated accessories.

Uncle Sam can't prolong his debt or help Communist countries without the help of his nephews and nieces, as two security offerings so deftly reveal. In Case A, $18 billion, yes billion, in 1952 bonds have come due, but Uncle Sam doesn't really want to pay off. So through Salomon Brothers investment bankers, the government is allowing the 1952 bond holders to turn in their 4% -plus bonds for new ones maturing in 1992 which will carry a nifty 7.1% interest rate.

In Case B, the Export- Import Bank, an independent agency of the government, is offering $300 million in 1975 debentures to the public at 5.30% interest. The Ex-Im Bank's purpose under enabling Acts of 1945 and 1968 is to "aid in financing and to facilitate exports and imports." Though the Ex-Im Bank is a respected agency, it has been involved in trade deals advantageous to the Soviet Union. Back in 1966, Life Lines broke the story that the building of a Fiat auto factory by Italy in Russia was not strictly a Russo- Italian business arrangement as had been publicized. The Ex-Im Bank had been asked to be the financial angel which would finance the purchase of tools and machinery Italy would need for the Fiat factory. The story enraged Congress which passed an amendment to stop Ex-Im financing of the needed equipment. Congress apparently balked at helping the Russians while they were supplying the North Vietnamese with war material. Ex-Im officials told Life Lines they didn't see anything wrong with U. S. involvement. At any rate, would-be buyers of the Ex-Im debentures should be put on notice as to the deeper implications of such purchases especially at this time when the administration is expanding trade with the slave masters in Moscow. As for the 1972 bond holders, the pot has been sweetened beyond conscience, which makes it easier to forget that someday the debt will have to be paid or repudiated. Wouldn't it be tragic if the repudiation came before the first 7.1% interest payment?

BELIEVES THE PEOPLE HAVE THE RIGHT TO KNOW

State Senator William Cason is pushing the "Sunshine Bill", one which will put on open record the actions and votes of any public body, including all Legislative committees, so that the taxpayers may know what their representatives are doing.

We concur with Sen. Cason, when he said;

"Today, in Missouri, many meetings are closed to the public and news media. Records of these bodies, unless required to be kept by law, are unavailable to any individual. No public body need even notify the news media that they are meeting. This, in effect, makes a conspiracy of silence which cannot be tolerated. Witness the refusal of the House Appropriations Committee in tabling the appropriations in the last special session. No one knew who was responsible for that fiasco. The vote was in secret and the names of those who voted "Yes" and "No" are not known yet.

"If this "Sunshine Bill" is passed, all meetings, even special meetings, would be advertised and open, all records would be available to anyone, and all action of the meeting would be taken in public, including the Legislature".

SCIENTIFIC SELECTION

A modern business firm has just hired a psychologist as a personnel manager. The psycholigst began by hiring a new secretary for the head of the firm, and the boss was looking on while the expert gave a psychological quiz to three feminine applicants.

"Two and two," said the psychologist.

"Four," replied the girl promptly.

To the same key words, the second girl said: "It might be 22."

The third girl answered, "It might be four and it might be 22."

After the last girl had left, the psychologist turned to the boss.

"There," he said, "you have the perfect example of the efficient psychological way of hiring people. The first girl said the obvious thing. The second was suspicious. The third was cagey and wasn't going to get caught. Which do you prefer?

The boss did not hesitate, "I'll take the blonde with the blue eyes."

Why do some manufacturers charge extra for an automatic cord reel on a vacuum cleaner? Shouldn't such safety features be mandatory?

Some persons can operate a vacuum cleaner with no cord entanglements. They may find a cord reel unnecessary. Others constantly hassle with the cord and will undoubtedly find the automatic cord reel well worth the extra cost. Safety and convenience features for some consumers are viewed as price boosters by others. That's why manufacturers usually offer them as optional.

Are attachments usually included in the purchase price of a vacuum cleaner?

It's a good idea to check to see which tools are included in the advertised price. Attachments are usually optional for upright cleaners Canister tank-type cleaners usually include a hose, two wands, a rug cleaning tool, a bare floor sweeper, upholstery tool, dusting brush and crevice tool.

Is a one-year guarantee standard for all vacuum cleaners?

Most manufacturers of vacuum cleaners offer a guarantee of one year on parts and labor. Occasionally, you'll find some parts are guaranteed for less time.

A GOOD SPONGE

The late Thomas A. Edison was talking one day with the governor of North Carolina, and the governor complimented him on being a great inventor.

"I am not a great inventor," said Mr. Edison.

"But you have over a thousand patents to your credit, haven't you?"

"Yes, but about the only invention I can really claim as absolutely original is the phonograph," was the inventor's reply.

"Just what do you mean?" asked the governor.

"Well," explained Mr. Edison, "I guess I'm an awfully good sponge. I absorb ideas from every source I can, and put them to practical use. Then I improve them until they become of some value. The ideas I use are mostly the ideas of people who don't develop them themselves.

From the Diary of Samuel Pepys, September 23, 1667, is taken the following item: "Coaches with glass doors are a new invention. The ladies are afraid of being shut up in them. They greatly prefer the pleasure of showing their whole persons instead of being concealed in the modern coach.

"Among the bad qualities of glass coaches is the flying open of the doors upon any great shake. And another is that Lady Peterborough, being in her glass coach, and seeing a lady pass by whom she would salute, the glass was so clear that she thought it had been open, and so ran her head through the glass and cut all her forehead."

A FAIR PRICE

Our capacity to consumer goods and services increases at an astounding rate. Exemplifying this trend is the demand for electric power. The Federal Power Commission's recently updated National Power Survey indicates an increase in demand for electric energy of over four times in the next 20 years. This will involve a growth in generating capacity from over 300,000 megawatts in 1970 to an estimated 1.26 million megawatts in 1990.

If the power demands of the future are to be met, both the general public and regulatory agencies must recognize the costs that are involved. Commenting on this, the Chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Mr. John N. Nassikas observes: "Federal and state regulatory action must assure a level of rates and return to enable the electric utility industry to attract an estimated $350 billion of capital at reasonable costs of money to provide optimum untility service to the consumer at a fair price." As exceptionally high interest rates and sharp inflationary costs increases all along the line persist, it has become evident that the traditional downward trend in costs of electric service cannot continue in most cases. More frequently than in the past, it is probable that a fair price will involve a rate increase.

It is difficult to imagine the consequences that would flow from the inability of the electric industry to attract enough private investment funds to build the facilities required to supply the nation's power needs. In such a circumstance, it is traditional to turn to government for funds and that could only mean the deep involvement of political management and bureaucracy in the provision of the nation's basic energy source. A few pennies a day, added to the average household electric bill, is a fair price to pay for abundant and reliable electric service. Such a supply of electric power is essential to the realization of such things as higher living standard for all and environmental improvement that we have set as national goals for the future.

REGULATORY INJUSTICE

New accounts of declining earnings in the airline industry and announcements by airline managements of the discontinuance of a number of flights on scheduled routes, raises once again, the question of the efficacy of public regulation. Are the airlines to become another victim of regulatory paralysis as have the railroads?

The rails are the oldest, publicly - regulated segment of the transportation industry. Archaic regulatory policies, judging by news reports, have brough them to the brink of disaster. Regulatory inadequacy now appears to threaten the airlines. It is striking particularly hard at the airline tha pioneered the international air travel business and for over four decades has been a major factor in maintaining the position of this nation as a leader in international air transport while at the same time paying its own way as a taxpaying, investor - owned enterprise. This airline, Pan American World Airways, has asked no favors and, throughout its history as the nation's leading international air carrier, has assumed certain responsibilities to the public and to the U. S. government in the area of foreign policy. In time of military emergencies, it stands ready to meet vital airlift requirements. Now, the blind hand of regulation is placing it under a heavy competitive handicap. Unlike other airlines, it is prohibited from sharing in domestic traffic rights. Its services are confined to overseas flights, and its service in the United States is limited to certain points of entry. Such a regulatory policy may have been fair enough a few years ago when competition in international air transport was limited; but, again, regulation has become out of date. Pan Am now competes with 89 airlines, many of which are supported by domestic routes. It must also compete with foreign carriers -- nationalized operations subsidized by government.

As a Pan Am spokesman points out, "Fighting uphill to return the company to a reasonably profitable operation gets discouraging when all of our competitors have access to both domestic and overseas markets." Pan Am has proven itself to be a national asset of first importance. Regulatory injustice that saps its strength and limits its ability to carry on an outstanding record of service to the nation and the traveling public makes no sense at all.

ALTERNATIVE TO COMPULSION

There is a side to our so-called free enterprise system that the public and politicians know or care little about. This little known side involves the raising of the billions of dollars of capital-- new money-- that must be poured into industry every year by investors if the needs of a growing population for jobs, services and products are to be met. It is all well and good for the environmentalists, politicians and the regulators to raise cain with an industry. But, when they do so without regard to the consequences, they are crawling out on a long and exceedingly slender limb.

No better illustration of such a hazardous course can be seen than in the electrid industry-- the most "capital intensive" industry in the country. It takes a lot of someone's invested savings to produce electric energy. In fact, it takes the savings of millions of citizens, and every dollar of these savings represents voluntary investment. Unless we turn to the system of socialism in which the taxpayer is compelled through taxation to invest involuntarily in power plants and other facilities that keep the nation a going concern, some attention should be paid to the need of an industry to attract investors. In the years to come, this will be especially important in the utility industry. While meeting public demand for low- cost, reliable electric energy, the utility industry must, at the same time, offer a fair return to investors. It is essential that more people understand this side of the utility business.

YOU CAN BE MORE EFFECTIVE

Enthusiasts for Truth and Freedom have been making gains in the battle to halt crime, so now is the time to press forward joyfully with such movements as LAW— AID and FREEDOM FIRST in order to win the battle. Seasoned campaigners have led the good people in support of our good lawmen at every level. When the people overcome fatal apathy, they can win victories. They are winning support for all good peace officers, but much remains to be done if law and order and our Republic are to be saved.

Thanks to these movements by the people, it is becoming less popular to slander good lawmen and law and order. The most sensible things being said about deplorable attacks on lawmen are not coming from sociologists and psychologists who should be the most knowledgeable and wise in the field of human nature.

Observations that really make sense about this situation are to be found in the letters written to the editors of newspapers large and small. Newspapers, especially those in rural areas and smaller cities and towns, afford much wisdom in their letters columns for all who will read them.

These letters make it clear that the people do not approve of crime and criminals and do not accept the doctrine of individual irresponsibility. In the letters the voice of the people speaks clearly. These letter columns give every person who has something to say his own personal editorial column, and what each writes will be read by many. Experienced Freedom enthusiasts have long advocated use of this forum as an important means of waging the fight to save Freedom. You, too, can write letters to the editor and joyfully join in the battle to save Freedom and our Republic. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One reason for the fuel crisis today is the sheer difficulty in keeping pace with civilization's growing needs for power. Within the United States alone our use of all kinds of power has increased twentyfold in 100 years.

Few things depreciate quicker than a new car. It drops about $1,226 in value the first year, about $735 a year over a five-year period. Incidentally, if you are an average owner, do you know what your car costs? If it is a standard car, it costs $6.37 a day to operate. The average for compact models is $4.44, that of subcompacts $3.09.

Earth isn't in style with the times. It isn't getting thinner; it is getting fatter. Its weight is increased by the addition of plant life, which turns the energy from sunlight into matter, and by the fall of some 730,000 tons of cosmic dust each year as we wheel through space. But the amount is so comparatively small that even the man in the moon probably wouldn't be aware of any change in the earth's silhouette through the centuries.

Quotable notables: "For good or ill, your conversation is your advertisement. Every time you open your mouth you let men look into your mind." Bruce Barton.

Smile, kid, smile; A Swiss psychiatrist says that children are very vulnerable to depression during the first year of life. The recommended treatment is to give them more attention. But this must be done as early as possible — else you may be helping to create a child who may grow up to be a sour and melancholy dyspeptic, one that will be a pain in the neck to have as a neighbor.

A fine crop: Just as now and then a vineyard produces a truly great wine, so do some years occur on earth when the world produces a breed of vintage men. Such a year was 1809. Among the notable men born then were William Gladstone, Alfred Tennyson, Charles Darwin, Abraham Lincoln, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Felix Mendelsshon, the composer. Well, for that matter, 1911 wasn't a bad year either.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
GOP Bait For Black Lawyers?
By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON– The FBI is investigating a report that President Nixon's proposed new anti- poverty chief, Howard Phillips, wanted to offer government grants to black lawyers as an inducement for them to become Republicans.

The charge was leveled by a top official who worked closely with Phillips in the Office of Economic Opportunity in 1971. We have spoken at length with the official who told us, in return for our promise to withhold his identity, what he had reported to the FBI.

"I can recall quite clearly," he said, "Phillips telling us that we ought to find some way of getting OEO money into the hands of some black attorneys and show them the advantage of turning Republican."

The official said he had given the details to FBI agent Al Dougal and was prepared, if it should come to court proceedings, "to step forward and testify." My associate Mike Kiernan reached Dougal who confirmed that the FBI is investigating the charge.

The FBI has learned that Phillips held a private meeting with half a dozen black attorneys in Berkeley, Calif., in the summer of 1971. This coincides with the time that Phillips allegedly urged granting government funds to black attorneys. It coincides, too, with a White House offer of an extra $2.5 million to California to experiment with different methods of providing legal aid to the poor.

The purpose of Phillips' meeting with the black lawyers, ostensibly, was to discuss judicare. This is a proposal to provide legal assistance to the poor through local bar associations or non-profit corporations. Critics claim judicare would wind up benefitting lawyers more than poor people.

GOVERNMENT FEES

The Berkeley meeting was held, coincidentally, in the offices of Tom Berkley, a prosperous black attorney in the Bay Area. State documents show he had been raking in huge fees as a state consultant to OEO. He admits receiving $10,000 in consultant fees for the months of June, July and August, 1971.

He assembled five prominent black lawyers to hear Phillips' pitch. One lawyer who attended the meeting recalls: "The thrust of the meeting was political. Phillips let Berkley do most of the talking, and he did quite a selling job on us. Don't get me wrong. No one said anything about pocketing huge fees. But I came away thinking these people were more interested in promoting their own law practices than in helping the poor."

The attorney was so upset that he went immediately to the Charles Houston Law Club. "He told us what he had heard at the meeting," recalls Don McCullum, the city attorney in Berkeley. "The gist of it was: if we supported private judicare, we could look forward to enjoying considerable financial benefits. Most of us reacted negatively."

We have also obtained notes taken at a later meeting with OEO executives in Washington. Significantly, one entry quotes Phillips as saying: "Subsidized black lawyers (are) necessary..."

Through a spokesman, Phillips denied he has ever made any statement about useing OEO funds to encourage blacks to become Republicans. He acknowledged going to Berkeley, Calif., for what he described as a "routine' meeting.

Footnote: Charles Lloyd, who attended the meeting in California, turned up in Washington last summer as a "policy advisor" to Phillips. Lloyd worked four months, collected $11,000 and returned to his law practice. In response to our inquiries, he asked us to call Tom Berkley, who shouted to us at great length over the long distance phone. "I publish six newspapers. I own property. I run the oldest, biggest integrated law firm in the state," he shouted. "I don't need their money."

LOYALTY TEST?--- Sources in a position to know the facts say Sam Butler, a prominent New York securities lawyer, had the chairmanship of the Securities and Exchange Commission all sewed up. He had impeccable Republican credentials and an excellent background in the securities field. He was escorted over to the White House where presidential aide John Ehrlichman questioned him about his views. Apparently, Butler didn't agree with all the President's war policies. Our sources say Butler suddenly was out in the cold. The loyal Butler, not one to embarrass his party, denies the incident occurred. He admits only that he was in serious contention for the SEC chairmanship.

Four of the airlines' sales personnel-- Tom Potter, Daniel Fromme, John Bailey and Tom Powers-- have also helped out at the Nicaraguan Embassy doing necessary but menial chores such as sorting and packing supplies.

Department heads to control own budgets

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The main goal in government reorganization, says Gov. Christopher S. Bond, is to give department heads control over their budgets.

"This is the central requirement," he said Tuesday in an interview.

Bond took no position on either the 542-page Senate reorganization bill or a 27-page House version, but promised to work with legislators in developing a sound plan.

"Power over the budgets is going to have to be lodged in the departmental directors," Bond said. "Its absence would make any reorganization plan a mere reshuffling."

The governor said assignment of different agencies to different departments is secondary in importance to making the agency heads reponsible to the 13 department directors. He said the directors should be clearly responsible for budgetary, personnel and long-range policy problems.

Day-to-day operations of the agencies can be left safely to the various commissions and agency heads, he said, but budgetary and professional staff must remain in the hands of the department directors.

Bond noted that the state Reorganization Commission cited the directors of the departments of public health and welfare and business and administraton as two powerless, functionless offices and he had hoped they could be done away with immediately.

But on investigation, Bond said, he found that was impossible because they have some statutory duties to perform. So, Bond said, he plans to take the unusual step of telling the legislature he would like to get rid of these offices but would have to appoint interim directors temporarily to take care of the statutory duties.

Bond said he, the auditor and the treasurer have approved the Exchange National Bank of Jefferson City as the collection agency for intangible tax receipts but no banks around the state have been approved so far as depositories for time deposits.

He said he did not know at this time whether a new federal bank in Jefferson City being sought by R. Crosby Kemper of Kansas City would figure as one of the depositories.

Kemper was in Jefferson City Tuesday and had lunch with State Auditor John D. Ashcroft, Revenue Director James R. Spradling and Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps.

The new governor — the nation's youngest at 33 — said he found his new job "a great challenge" but had not expected so many problems would hit him all at once.

The first thing that happened as soon as he finished the grand march at the inaugural ball, Bond said, was word that the town of Polo in Caldwell County was without water and would he please do something about it.

Ashcroft announces major reorganization of office

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Auditor John D. Ashcroft announced today what he called a major reorganization of the auditor's office.

Ashcroft said a new systems and audit support division will replace the professional services division.

The new division will develop and suggest uniform accounting systems for use by different state agencies, Ashcroft said.

It also will be responsible for training all staff members and will provide statistical services for state and local agencies.

The county audit division will be renamed the County and Special Audit Division, Ashcroft said. The Division of External Affairs will be called the Governmental Services Division. It will be in charge of registering all bonds and filing budgets and financial statements.

"These reforms I have announced today are aimed at reducing waste and maximizing all available resources," Ashcroft said.

Tuesday, Ashcroft announced the appointments of George E. Bishop of Jefferson City as supervisor of the state audits division, and of Fred Watterson, Columbia, as supervisor of the systems audit support division.

Watterson, 36, is completing work for a doctorate at the University of Missouri and is a consultant for the U.S.

RISCO-- Risco High School's 1973 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow is Sheila Kay Steward.

Selected by score in written knowledge and attitude examination taken by senior girls on Dec. 5, Miss Steward will receive a specially designed award from General Mills, sponsor of the annual contest. In addition, she remains eligible for state and national honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, to be chosen from all school winners in the state, will receive a $1,500 college scholarship. A 20- volume reference work, "The Annals of America," will also be presented to the state winner's school by Encyclopedia Britannica Educational Corp. The second ranking student in the state will receive a $500 scholarship.

A total of 665,600 seniors were enrolled in this year's search, the first in which boys were eligible to participate. Since the program began in the 1945-55 school year, approximately nine million students have participated, and with this year's grants, scholarship awards will exceed $2 million.

Miss Steward, 17, is a senior at Risco High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Steward of Parma Route Two.

Ann Landers

—The bride should return gifts if wedding is stopped

Dear Ann Landers: I realize that customs vary according to locale and since I have been in America only seven months (from the United Kingdom) I wonder if you can tell me please if I am being hypercritical.

Several showers were given last month for a young bride whose wedding was cancelled suddenly, by mutual agreement. The bride's mother bought time on the local TV station to announce that the wedding was called off and would everyone who would like to have their shower and wedding gifts back please come and get it.

It seems to me that the gifts should have been returned. To have put the burden on the giver, I thought, was inquestionable taste. This is a sticky wicket to say the least and I would like to hear what you have to say.-- Around The Bend?

Dear Bend: Customs do vary according to locale, but I know of no place on the face of the earth where it is good manners to publicly request that friends come and get their gifts. The bride's mother should have returned them.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's brother and his wife came to visit the in- laws who live 30 miles from here. We drove back and forth four times the first weekend because they weren't up to coming to our place.

On Sunday, as we were leaving, my sister- in- law announced that she was driving over to my house "tomorrow" to do her laundry. I was flabbergasted. Sure enough, she showed up after I had left for work. My husband had taken the day off to bike- ride with his brother, so he let her in and instructed her on how to use the washer- dryer. He said she seemed to understand. Unfortunately she flooded the washer (three loads) onto our new kitchen carpet which had been laid the previous week.

When the brothers returned from biking, my sister- in- law was on the porch reading a book. No attempt had been made to mop up the water. She stated matter- of- factly that she had followed his instructions and our washer "must have a leak in it." When I returned home, there was no note. No call of apology came later. There was never an offer made to restore the carpet.

The next day she phoned to say she was coming over "tomorrow" and it was too bad our washer leaked. I asked her not to come until I had returned from work.

Now my husband is mad at me. He says my voice was "unfriendly" and I was not very hospitable. What do you say?-- Dampened Spirits

Dear Damp: I say you had every right to ask your sister- in- law to postpone her visit until you returned from work, if that's the way you wanted it. Your husband should have supported you and on this point without hesitation. Considering the circumstances, I'd say you were more of a lady than your sister- in- law.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope I'm not too late to reply to those women who are feeling sorry for themselves because their husband watched so much football on TV.

I fought that battle and lost. I tried joining him but I was bored stiff. I'm no good at faking it, so I decided to USE that time to do something that gave me satisfaction. Here's what I did: answered all the letters I had been putting off, cleaned drawers and cupboards, caught up on my mending, and best of all, I cooked and baked a freezer full of things that will come in handy for the next several months. You've said it so often, Ann, "When life hands you a lemon, make lemonade." I took your advice and I'm -- Happier Now

Dear Happier: Have a drink on me.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of hel? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill., 60654.

Mrs. Don J. Larks Jr.

Larks-Kavanagh

FARMINGTON, Mich. — Miss Kathryn Marie Kavanagh and Don J. Larks Jr. were married in a Dec. 1 candleight nuptial mass in the Mercy Center Chapel on the campus of Our Lady of Mercy High School where the bride attended high school.

The groom's uncle, Father Edward Tohme' of La Cross, Wis., officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Thomas Kavanagh of Detroit, Mich., and the granddaughter of Harry C. Blanton of Sikeston, Mo., and the late Mrs. Blanton. Larks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don J. Larks of Detroit.

The sanctuary of the chapel was decorated with four large seven- branched candelabras and the two large matching bowls of gold-bronze, yellow and white mums outlined by tall spikes of yellow and white gladiolas. The bowls of flowers rested on the topmost of the seven steps leading to the main altar of the chapel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of old ivory satin styled like those of a hundred years ago. The bodice was of rose lace and the dress featured a high mandarin collar and long bishop sleeves of the same lace over the ivory satin. The satin skirt fell straight from the high waist in front and was fully gathered in back in a bustle- type effect. The skirt was decorated in front with tiny nosegays of lace roses appliques and tied with tiny, ivory, satin ribbons. The bottom of the skirt was decorated with a wide border of the rose lace and finished off with delicate, tiny, accordian pleats of the ivory satin. The skirt swept into a formal chapel train in the back.

The bride wore a headpiece of a white rose with matching rosebuds which complemented her old-fashioned coiffure of curls. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of white and yellow roses, white carnations, babies' breath and ivy.

Miss Deda Kavanagh of New York was her sister's maid of honor. The other bridesmaids were also sisters of the bride and groom. They were Miss Maure en Daily Kavanagh of East Lansing, Mich., and Miss Rosemary Kavanagh, Mrs. Timothy Armbruster, Mrs. Timothy Clancy and Miss Lois Larks of Detroit.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore formal renaissance gowns of bronze-gold velvet which they made. The gowns had low cut bodices with wide cumberbunds of the same material inserted at the waist and long tight sleeves. The skirts of the gowns were fully gathered at the waists. Each carried a single, full-bloomed, long-stemmed yellow rose.

Robert Kennedy, cousin of the groom, was best man. Timothy Clancy, brother-in-law of the groom, John and Leonard Larks, brothers of the groom, and Tom and Terry Kavanagh, brothers of the bride, were groomsmen.

The mother of the bride, the former Patricia Blanton of Sikeston, wore a formal gown of straight simple lines. The bodice of the gown was black velvet trimmed with hot pink satin bands at the high neck and around the arms. The skirt was a black nylon print with hot pink and other complementary colors. She wore a white orchid corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a formal gown of apple green silk made with princess lines. It was worn with a matching green jacket trimmed with equins. The groom's mother wore a corsage of green orchids.

The organist and vocalist was George Assemoni. Among the songs, he sang were Shubert's "Ave Maria" in memory of Mrs. Harry Blanton, the bride's late grandmother, who sang the song many times as solosit of her church choir. While the song was sung, the bride placed a bouquet of white carnations on the side altar dedicated to Mrs. Blanton.

The altar boys were Stephen Toccolino and John Polisono.

A reception followed the wedding. The dinner and dance was held in the East Ballroom of the Mercy College Center in Detroit. The bridal party sat at a long table at one end of the room, and the remaining guests sat at smaller round tables. During the evening the new bride and her six sisters treated the guests to an entertainment surprise. They danced a spirited verision of an Irish jig.

The bride is a graduate of Maryville College of the Sacred Heart in St. Louis, Mo., where she majored in drama and had leading parts in several college plays. She has been working for a public relations firm in Washington, D. C., since her graduation in 1970 and has appeared on the stage there in featured roles with several repetory companies.

The groom is a graduate of Catholic Central High School and the University of Detroit where he majored in communications. After graduation he served in the U. S. Army. Among his duties was that of ceremonial announcer for the elite Old Guard of the army. At present, he is news editor for radio station WAVA in Washington, D. C.

The couple is making its home in Arlington, Va.

Out-of - town guests at the wedding were Harry C. Blanton and Mrs. Jean Klein of Sikeston; Mrs. J. P. Tlapek of Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Blanton of Joliet, Ill., Father Tohme' of La Crosse, Wis., Miss Margaret Tohme' of South Bend, Ind.; Mrs. Robert Shea and Mrs. George Schwedler of Bay City, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. John Schwedler of Port Austin, Mich.; and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Spritz and Larry Max of East Lansing, Mich.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Larks gave a rehearsal dinner at their home on Montrose Avenue in Detroit.

Naylor Slips

The week of Jan 15- 20 has been the most disappointing for the Naylor Eagles high school basketball team and its coach, J.C. Morrow.

It all started on Tuesday, Jan. 16, when the Eagles was issued their first defeat of the season. Alton accomplished the feat, turning back the Daily Standard's third ranked NHS cagers, 86- 81.

But it didn't stop there, the Eagles lost their next encounter, this time dropping a 57- 56 decision to the Doniphan Dons to start a near streak after winning their first 12 of the campaign.

But the week came to a joyous end Saturday night as NHS turned back Ellsinore, 68- 60, to get back into the victory column.

The Eagles loss, coupled with Cape Central's defeat Friday night left the Advance Hornets as the only unbeaten team in Southeast Missouri. AHS has won 20 straight this season and 31 over the last two campaigns.

NEW YORK—Olympic swimming champion Mark Spitz was the overwhelming winner of The Associated Press award as the outstanding world male athlete of 1972.

PORTAGEVILLE — Another upset dotted first round action in the New Madrid County basketball tournament here Tuesday night. Parma defeated Risco 45-43, and Matthews rolled by third seeded New Madrid, 62-51, in the B-team bracket while in varsity action, the host Portageville Bulldogs looked very impressive as they defeated Gideon, 63-49.

The first game of the evening, a junior varsity clash between Parma and Risco, proved to be the most exciting contest of the night. The lead changed hands numerous times throughout the game with neither team being able to break the game open. Parma led at the end of the first quarter, 8-6, but Risco scored 14 points in the second quarter to knot the score at the half 20-20. After a slow third quarter in which the junior Tigers from Risco won 8-6, the fourth seeded Parma quintet lived up to their rating by outscoring the Tigers 19-15 in the final period to take the victory, 45-43.

Dale Hardin and Dick Ramsey had 14 and 13 points apiece to lead the Parma attack. Wally Ramsley pumped in 22 points and Robert Peterson added 12 more tallies to pace the junior Tigers.

In the second contest of the night, the Matthews Pirates defeated the junior Indians from New Madrid, 62-51.

The junior Pirates simply outran the New Madrid quintet in the first half as they scored layup after layup after picking off errant Indian passes. The Pirates led 14-9 at the end of the first quarter and stretched their lead to 13 points, 34-21, at the half.

In the second half Coach Carroll Compton's Indians regained their poise and stayed with the Pirates but the game had already been decided and Coach Carl Ritter's junior Pirates came up with the upset victory over the third seeded Indians, 62-51.

Scotty Bewley paced the Matthews scorers with 20 points to take game honors. David Kennedy and Ken Lape added 16 and 13 points respectively for Matthews. New Madrid was paced by Robert Fowler with 13, Robert Sims with 12, and Craig Hunter with 11 points.

In the only varsity contest of the evening, James Holt pumped in 26 points to lead the Portageville Bulldogs to a 63-49 victory over Gideon. The 6' 1" forward was unstoppable as he hit jump shots from as far as 30 feet out as well as scoring from in close for the Bulldogs. If not for a cold third quarter in which the Bulldogs managed only six points the Portageville quintet would have turned the game into a rout.

Portageville led at the end of the first period, 21-14 and at the half, 39-28. After the cold third quarter in which Gideon was able to come within four points, 45-41, the Bulldogs pumped in 18 points in the final quarter while Gideon could manage only eight to give the Bulldogs the victory.

Robbie added 13 points and Warren Bishop had 12, nearly all of them coming from the 20 foot plus range. Curtis Coleman and Joe Murphy led Gideon in scoring with 17 and 13 points respectively.

Semi-final action will begin tonight with Lilbourn meeting Parma at 7:00 in the junior varsity contest and Parma facing New Madrid at 8:30 in a varsity clash.

Pobst leads Braves rally

MORELY — Coach Ron Cookson and his Scott Central Braves remained undefeated in Scott-Mississippi Conference play Tuesday night, defeating East Prairie 67-62. They now stand at 3-0 in the conference.

Mike Pobst hit for 25 markers to lead scoring for the Braves. Fred Rowe had 19 and Larry Bright 11 points.

East Prairie pulled out to the lead, 18-14, in the first quarter. Scott Central stayed within striking distance of the Eagles but could not dump in the needed baskets to overtake the East Prairie team and at half the Eagles maintained their lead, 38-32.

In third quarter playing, East Prairie fell off the pace somewhat and the Braves were able to move within two points of the Eagles. Scott Central continued their consistent playing in the final quarter and slipped by East Prairie to capture the win.

Leroy Bradley dumped in 24 points and Steve Husk added 20 for the Eagles.

Dons take Dogs

POPLAR BLUFF — The Sikeston Bulldogs were beaten Tuesday night by the Doniphan Dons. The contest ended with Doniphan pulling off the 55-54 upset of the third seeded Dogs, and Sikeston extending their losing streak to ten games.

A crowd of nearly four hundred shrieked and yelled every move made by the Dons, even though they were supposed to lose. By contrast, less than fifty showed up to cheer the Bulldogs, assuming the Big Red would pull off their first win of the season.

The Doniphan team was an aggressive one, and foul calls seemed always to be in the underdogs' favor. Pope Hunt was harassed all night under the goal, catching elbows to the head and body, yet he went to the charity line just twice. However, the officials cannot be blaned since the Bulldogs should have won the contest easily. Instead, they put forth a rather mediocre effort, and let the sure win slip from their grasp. The tempo of the game was set by Doniphan early. They dominated the backboards and were simply more aggressive than Sikeston, pickup up all loose balls and looking sharper than the larger, and supposedly quicker Bulldogs.

Although Sikeston led most of the first quarter, the Dons spurted to a three point lead at its conclusion, 14-11. The score remained the same throughout most of the rest of the game, with little variation.

Sikeston caught their tormentors in the second quarter several times. But, they were called for two technicals and Doniphan converted both.

By half, loose Sikeston play had pushed them four points behind the smaller Dons, 30-26.

The third quarter was the only one in which Sikeston claimed the edge. Although their play was still shakey, they managed to outscore Doniphan 14-10 to have the count knotted at 40-all entering the last period.

Doniphan scored first in the period, but several brilliant passes by the Sikeston pivotman (Hunt) pushed the Bulldogs into the lead. The Bulldogs went into a fullcourt press and got a three point lead. However, a three minute span without a basket for Sikeston spelled defeat. While Doniphan was unable to score because of the tenacious Sikeston defense, the Bulldogs were unable to pull away. Doniphan finally had the ball with less than 30 seconds to play. Waiting for the final shot, Jerry Braschler was fouled on an attempted steal by Ron Marks. Braschler went to the line, and connected on two free throws with six seconds to play, giving Doniphan the edge and the victory at 55-54.

Sikeston brought the ball quickly down court and fed Pope Hunt. With time running out, the 6-foot-4 senior shot from 15 feet out and missed, but on the shot he took a good hit from Tom Brummitt. The officials saw this one and awarded Pope two shots. There was a momentary misunderstanding, as the officials motioned the players off the court. The Sikeston players were disgusted, but they were assured that Hunt would get his shots -- it was just that no time would be left on the clock.

With the huge Doniphan crowd screaming and stomping the bleachers, Hunt bowed to the pressure and shot too softly on both attempts. With his head hung in defeat, Hunt was consoled and then led off the court by head coach N. P. McDaniel. At the same time Jeremiah Tucker, who had played his heart out wept openly while laying face down on the court.

The game was decided at the free throw line. The Dons, despite rough play, were called for just a dozen fouls, five less than the Bulldogs. However, they connected on 60 per cent of their tries, while Sikeston hit just 40 per cent. Sikeston shot 37 per cent from the floor, to 40 per cent for Doniphan and the Bulldogs out rebounded their foes, 37 to 30. In a turnover-filled game, there were 24 miscues by Doniphan and 22 by the losing Bulldogs.

The team played their hearts out in the contest. They were obviously pressing disappointed by the small crowd of Sikeston boosters who showed to support them. The team did not play well. They deserved to lose, but they deserve better support from their fans.

Hunt, despite missing the crucial free throws, was outstanding for Sikeston. Good blocking out by Doniphan kept him away from the boards, but he did score 20 points. Tucker was the only other Bulldogs in twin figures with ten. The senior forward added ten rebounds to lead the team.

Just five roundballers played for Doniphan, and four scored in twin figures. Kenny Hunt led the Dons with 14 points. His quick hands and good defensive pressure forced many Bulldog miscues in the contest. Jackie Rowe followed with 13 points and Jerry Braschler and Randy Farrin added ten each.

Thomas Jefferson served as the first U. S. secretary of state.

In the A team bracket Dexter romped over the Woodland Cardinals 76-38 and in another B team game the Advance Hornets had an easy time disposing of the Puxico Indians, 64-21.

In the opening game of the night Coach Cookson's Hornets took an 18-2 first period lead and coasted the rest of the way for their 15th win of the season without a defeat.

The Hornets hit a cold spell in the second quarter and Puxico finally started sinking some baskets and the Indians outscored Advance 10-8.

Advance came out after the halftime break and started pressing the Indians, forcing many turnovers and held the Puxico team to only two points in the quarter while the Hornets netted 16. Advance used their bench nin the last quarter and scored 21 points to only seven for Puxico.

David Cummings was the high point man for the Advance team with 26 points. Bud Alsup led the Indian offense with eight.

Coach Jim Hall's Bearcats used a full court press and forced the Woodland team into numerous mistakes Dexter led 21-7 after the first quarter. The Second period was more of the same as Bruce Bishop had the hot hand from the corners and Dexter led 42-11 at thehalf.

The Bearcats began to substitute in the second half and Woodland scored 11 points in the third period to 19 for Dexter. The last quarter was played evenly with Woodland getting 16 to 15 for Dexter. The Bearcats are seeded second behind Advance.

The Wildcats battled back within one at the end of the third period, 37-36.

The final quarter was a battle back and forth with the lead changing hand several in the first six minutes of the period.

With 43 seconds left and Bloomfield leading 49-48, Ken Johnson sank two free throws for a three point lead and the Wildcats went on to win their seventh B game in a row after dropping their first six starts.

Legislative 'hot line' in action in Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's citizens can now check on what their legislators are doing over a "hot line," Sen. William J. Cason D-Clinton, announced Tuesday.

Cason said the hot line had been established at more than 150 local libraries to link citizens to what was happening in the state capital.

"I searched for some means to let the people know what was about to happen so they could actually become part of what was happening," Cason said.

Cason, who is president pro tem of the Senate, said, with the help of the state librarian's staff he was able to set up a service based on the library's telephone reference service to provide the "hot line."

Cason said he found out the Legislative Research Committee prints daily computerized sheets that detail where every bill is in the legislative process, but it had been available only to the governor and top state officials previously.

"Now the 'hot line' is available to every Missourian who wants to know what is going on in his state government," Cason said.

"All he has to do is pick up his telephone and call the local public library to find out, for example, whether the governor has signed a bill or vetoed it, when a public hearing will be held on any bill or whether there are one or three bills to curb the drunken driver," Cason said.

The case of the educated hands

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The sudden emergence of massage parlors in a small town created a ticklish situation. Customers were limited to men and good looking gals were doing the massaging. Taking a dim view of possible hanky- panky, the authorities enacted an ordinance that prohibited the administering of massages by members of the opposite sex.

Immediately upon its enactment, Looey, who owned and operated several of the parlors, attacked the validity and impropriety of the ordinance in court.

"The impropriety isn't with the ordinance," responded the authorities, "it's with women giving massages to men. It rubs the wrong way and just isn't right. Since an ordinance may be enacted to protect the morals of the public, the ordinance is perfectly valid."

"No it isn't," was Looey's answer. "It's discriminatory. It deprives a woman from engaging in her vocation purely because of her sex. The fact is, my gals are the best in the business. They have more knowledge in their hands than most people have in their heads."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you invalidate the ordinance on the grounds that it discriminated against women and their educated hands?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the ordinance was not discriminatory since it applied to men and women alike. And, concluded the judge in effect, the barrier erected by the ordinance against immoral acts likely to result from too intimate familiarity of the sexes is a reasonalbe exercise of authority in protecting the moral welfare of a community.

TIN CUP RUNNETH OVER

TIN CUP, Ind. (AP) — This southern Indiana community apparently has not jumped on the zero population growth bandwagon.

The roadside identification sign which originally read, "Population 14" has been altered and a "15" painted in.

You won't find Tin Cup on the state highway map, but a state highway official says it's near Bedford.

COOKING-UP with Donna Satterfield

These cold, windy days aren't good for much, but I'll bet the kiddies will agree they're just right for baking cookies. And there are at least 43,000 different kinds to choose from.

Unfortunately, I cannot print all of them, so today's column features only a wee amount in the space available.

"Nothing' says lovin' like something from the oven ..."

QUICK OATMEAL COOKIES

½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup butter
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon milk
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon solda
½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup quick rolled oats

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Measure the brown sugar and granulated sugar and cream with ½ cup butter. Combine and beat in until smooth the egg, vanilla and milk. Sift together the dry ingredients and add to first mixture. When beaten smooth, add the oats. Three-fourths cup chocolate chips or one teaspoon grated orange rind can be added.

Beat the mixture well. Drop cookies two inches apart on well- greased cookie sheet and bake until light brown.

BUTTERSCOTCH REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

1¼ cups firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup butter
1 beaten egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ to 1 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
½ cup nuts

Sift the sugar. Beat the butter until soft and add the sugar gradually. Blend these ingredients until very light and creamy. Mix in the egg and add vanilla. Sift before measuring the flour and resift with the salt and baking powder. Stir the sifted ingredients into the butter mixture. Add nuts or chocolate chips. Chill the roll for 12 to 24 hours and bake on a greased cookie sheet in a 400 - degree oven for 8-10 minutes. Dough may be dropped before chilling if you want to make up a batch immediately.

CHOCOLATE CRACKER KISSES

2/3 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips or 1 ounce chocolate, plus ¼ cup sugar
2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons crushed salted soda crackers

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Heat chocolate chips over hot water, let cool for about five minutes. Beat the egg whites until very stiff and add vanilla and cream of tartar. Beat in gradually the sugar and gently fold in the crackers and the cooled chocolate mixture. Drop the meringue - like dough, a teaspoon at a time, onto a well-greased cookie sheet. Bake about 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from oven when a glazed cap has formed and puffed up over a ¼-inch platform of the dough. Store, when cool, in a tightly closed container.

PECAN OR ANGEL SLICES

½ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream sugar and butter. Beat in egg and combine flour and salt. Work in vanilla. Use your hands to pat the dough evenly in a 9 x 12-inch pan. Bake for about 15 minutes. Spread with following mixture:

2 beaten eggs
1½ cups brown sugar
½ cup flaked coconut
1 cup chopped pecans
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

If preferred, omit the coconut and use 1½ cup of nuts instead. Bake the cake for about 25 minutes. When cool, ice with 1½ cups sifted confectioner's sugar thinned in a good spreading consistency with lemon juice. Cut into oblongs.

GINGERBREAD MEN

¼ cup butter
½ cup white or brown sugar
½ cup dark molasses
3½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup water

Blent until creamy the butter and sugar. Beat in molasses. Sift the flour and resift with other dry ingredients. Add the sifted ingredients to the butter mixture in about 3 parts, alternately with ¼ cup water if you roll the dough or 1/3 cup if you model it.

You may have to work in the last of the flour mixture with your hands if you are not using an electric mixer. If you are satisified with a cruede approximation, roll a ball for a head, a larger one for the body and cylinders for the arms and legs. Stick them together on a greased pan to form a fat boy or girl. Be sure to overlap and press these dough elements together carefully, so they will stay in one piece after baking. If you want something looking less like primitive man,roll the dough first to any thickness you like. A good way to do this is to grease the bottom of a baking sheet and to roll the dough directly onto it. Now, cut out your figures, either by using a floured cookie tin or by making a pattern of your own.

Decorate before baking with small raisins, bits of candied cherry, redhots, decorettes, citron, etc., indicating features and buttons.

Bake the cookies for eight minutes or longer, according to their thickness in a 350-degree oven. Test them for doneness by pressing the dough with your finger. If it springs back after pressing, the gingerbread cookies are ready to be cooled on a rack. Stir in a small bowl, to make a paste:

¼ cup confectioner's sugar
a few drops of water

You may add a few drops of vegetable coloring.

Apply the icing with a toothpick or a small knife for additional garnishes -- caps, hair, mustaches, belts, shoes, etc.

Farmers in the United States harvest more than 286,000 acres of watermelons each year.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Catalogues Make Nice Booster Chair for Tots

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—When my large thick catalogues became out-dated I taped two of them together and covered the entire thing with pretty adhesive backed paper. This made an excellent booster chair for my grandson to sit on at the table. I wipe it off when the table is cleared and then store it away for his next visit.—DORIS

Polly's Problem

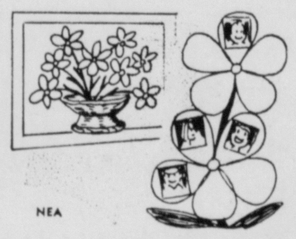
DEAR POLLY—I hope some reader will tell me how I can clean my wedding rings. I wear them constantly and they get very dirty as I cook and clean. I find ammonia does a fair job but not like the professional cleaning by a jeweler. I would have this done by a jeweler but dislike leaving them there for a day or two. Hope someone can help me.—VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY—One of My Pet Peeves is with people who drive with their headlights on during holidays in the daytime. This only adds to the glare and confusion of traffic and we already have too much of that.—MRS. E. W.

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. L. B. who wanted to make a family tree as an anniversary gift. Last Christmas I made a photo-family tree for my grandparents which was easy and fun to do and much appreciated. I bought a large, wide picture frame and covered a piece of cardboard, to fit into it, with beige burlap. I bought a straw basket which I cut in half and hooked to the burlap. I also bought green velvet stems and leaves and two shades of orange felt. Flower petals were cut out of the felt—one shade for grandchildren and one for great-grandchildren. These petals were large enough so a tiny snapshot of each child could be glued on a petal. Velvet stems to the flowers represented the parents and the flowers branched out from the proper stem in the order of their births. The first-born parent's stem was on the left and so on all around. Leaves placed on the stems represented those who had married into the family. Extra pictures could be stored in the basket. This photo tree could be made of any material and its size is dependent on the number of pictures to be used. I can assure you this was easier to make than to describe. New flower faces can always be added, too. A coat of varnish on frame and basket added an extra glow.—SONIE



DEAR POLLY—For breakfast my husband and I like perked coffee but he likes his weak and I like it strong. To make us both happy I have learned to make weak perked coffee and then I add half a teaspoon of instant coffee to my cup and get the extra strength I like. —VENICE

(POLLY: or he could add hot water to strong coffee.)

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Poor Charles, he so loves to fiddle around in his roses and tomatoes, and I am always picking on the sweet ole thing, so I really hoarded my pennies and bought my fella a greenhouse as a peaceoffering. Honest — a nine by twelve free standing greenhouse now stands sedately in our backyard, just waiting to be filled with gorgeous plants to be carried indoors to be enjoyed by me. I mean you might as well get some kind of a return on your money! Course, if I am to be completely honest, I must admit this idea was prompted a bit when Charles casually let slip one day that he was planning on using the library table in the sunroom as a basis on which to put his shelves of dirt to start his flower seeds in. Well frankly, I almost had a stroke, can you imagine that? I would have had an acre of dirt, two little boys and a dog in hog heaven, mud pies and heaven knows what, along with seeds being sprouted everywhere from the basement to the attic — thus, the idea of the greenhouse came to mind. Do you suppose he was brilliant enough to let that remark slip intentionally and thus planted his first seed in my mind to germinate into just such an idea? If so, what a coup — I'm going to have to keep a more watchful eye on that boy. Anyway, now that he has his little goody, instead of being grateful and sweet, he's turned into a regular snarling beast, and when his sister wanted to bring over some of her sicker plants, and my neighbor started over with a few slightly yellow green things, and I too had been nursing along some ill flora and fauna, he turned nasty — nasty!! He turned away all of our poor dying babies, had a stroke over an avacodo seed we had started sprouting for him, and ugly thing that he is, went right out and bought a key & padlock for HIS greenhouse and informed us all he was going to play in there all by himself. Stingy ole goat. I hope all his plants get the dry rot!!!

What's cooking at snacktime?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When snacktime comes around, a lot of cooks are likely to use ready-to-bake refrigerated biscuits in various ways. Packed in small cartons and picked up at a food market, the biscuits lend themselves to original home-kitchen treatment.

The following recipe gives one cook's way of rerolling the biscuits and filling them with cheddar cheese and deviled ham. In this guise they're good to serve with morning coffee, afternoon tea or a before-dinner drink. Good, too, to offer with a soup-and-salad lunch or a chowder-and-salad supper. This recipe makes 10 snacks; it may be doubled.

DEVILED HAM SNACKS

1 package (9 1/2 ounces) refrigerated flaky buttermilk biscuits (10 biscuits)
10 strips cheddar cheese, each 2 1/2 inches long and 1/2 inch wide
1 can (2 1/4 ounces) deviled ham
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon tomato-base barbecue sauce
1 tablespoon cornflake crumbs

With a rolling pin, shape biscuits into ovals that are 3 inches long and 2 inches wide.

Place a strip of cheese in the center of each biscuit and cover cheese with deviled ham. Wrap dough to enclose filling and seal edges by pinching dough together.

DEVILED HAM SNACKS — They're made quickly from refrigerated ready-to-bake biscuits.

Place rolls, seam side down, next to each other in a greased square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches); there will be 2 rows, 5 biscuits in each.

In a small skillet over low heat melt butter and stir in barbecue sauce. Brush tops of rolls with this mixture. Sprinkle with cornflake crumbs.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until golden-brown — 15 minutes.

Kennett serviceman reacts to peace

SAIGON (AP) — "We didn't want to say anything. We wanted to holler and scream at the same time, but we didn't want to miss anything. It kind of gives you cold chills."

That was how Spec. 4. Tim Hall of Kennett, Mo., expressed his feelings and those of a handful of other American soldiers who gathered around a radio at the Bien Hoa air base Wednesday to hear President Nixon's announcement of an end to the long war. About 23,000 American servicemen still remain in South Vietnam.

Hall observed that the uppermost matter in the minds of most GIs who served in Vietnam over the years — the length of time left on their tours — suddenly had become meaningless.

"I've been here 10 months and I've got 64 days to go, but we don't worry about that stuff any more," he said. He and the other Americans left are to be gone from Vietnam within 60 days under terms of the accord.

Open meetings bill could raise esteem of state government

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The sponsor of the open meetings bill told the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday night he thought his bill would help "dispel the myth that something sinister is going on in the legislature."

Rep. James Baker, D-Kansas City, said he did not think the bill would cause "any great hardship on any public body and it will raise the esteem of government in the eyes of the public."

Testifying for more than one hour, Baker said, he was not satisfied with bills drawn up by the Citizens Lobby and Common Cause, two groups campaigning for open meetings.

He said other bills drafted called for recording of all votes by government organizations and this was not practical.

"Recording votes would slow up government bodies like the House, even a vote to adjourn would have to be recorded and recording also precludes any form of voice vote," Baker said.

In response to questioning, Baker said "my bill was not intended to include party caucuses."

He said party caucuses were not public governmental bodies.

Several members of the committee questioned Baker on whether requiring public bodies to notify both the public and the news media did not leave open meetings at the hands of the press.

"They're going to have to rely on the news media, whether they like it or not, but in my experience that has not been a problem," Baker said.

Rep. Bob Griffin, D-Cameron, asked Baker if he thought a court could hold a public body responsible if the news media did not publish a notice of a meeting the organization gave them.

"I don't believe that any responsible judge would find fault with any organization who submitted their notices to the press," he said. "If the news media didn't publish them the fault would lie with the media."

Baker said he did not include any provision requiring the press to publish notices of meetings because it would involve freedom of the press.

Baker also explained that under his bill courts could file injunction suits against any organization that failed to comply with the law.

He said other bills which said any action taken at closed meetings would be void was too strong.

His bill calls for records of organizations to be made public for information or duplication, but does not require bodies who are not keeping records now to begin keeping them.

Carl Wilson, chairman of the Citzens Lobby, said he favored the Baker bill over a Senate version which allows "private discussions." He said the section allowing private discussions cripples the Senate version.

He criticized Baker's bill for not requiring a recording of votes but said he still supported it.

Wilson was carried out of a closed session of the House Appropriations Committee hearing earlier Tuesday when he refused to leave.

Jeff City bank will stay main depository

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Central Missouri Trust Bank of Jefferson City will remain the depository of the state's main general fund account, James I. Spainhower, state treasurer, said Tuesday.

Spainhower said the Commerce Bank of Kansas City and the Mercantile Trust Bank of St. Louis will continue to serve as secondary banks for state deposits.

Spainhower, a Democrat, said the Central Trust Bank which has handled the state's main account for 60 years now has a balance of about $14.5 million in state funds.

Under state law, the governor and the auditor also must approve banks where state funds are not kept.

Spainhower said he thought Republican Gov. Christopher S. Bond would not oppose his selections.

Spainhower said he thinks balances of state money have grown too large in the past. He said since taking office this month he has withdrawn $25 million in state funds deposited in banks and reinvested the money in U.S. Treasury bills.

Spainhower said he plans to initiate studies to determine whether state funds can be used more effectively and to establish cost accounting procedures so he can determine the cost to a bank of handling state accounts.

He said no such procedure now exists.

Spainhower said balances in the three banks would probably remain about the same until his studies have been completed.

Mercantile Trust Bank has about $2.8 million in state funds and the Commerce Bank has about $400,000, he said.

Shelton requests new building fund be kept alive

MALDEN — Phillip Shelton, director of Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, requested that the City Council authorize Mayor Sparrel Davis and City Clerk Roscoe Thornton to sign a resolution no later than Jan. 23 to keep the federal grant request for a new community building alive.

Shelton presented the resolution to the city council Monday night.

A group of senior citizens present requested the council to use some federal revenue-sharing money to provide transportation, such as a bus, for Malden senior citizens. Mayor Davis asked the council to withhold a decision until after a meeting at Sikeston today to discuss how revenue-sharing money should be spent. He assured the senior citizens that the matter would be studied by the council.

Tom Steward, representing Motorola Radio Service discussed a service contract with the council. Steward and the chief of police are to inspect all city equipment, and a bid price for servicing is to be made.

The Rev. James Fair informed the council he plans to build a new church at 900 Kimball St. and asked if there are any restrictions on building at the site. The mayor said there are no objections as of now, but the zoning commission is setting up regulations requiring at least two acres of ground for each church being built.

Mark Bostin reported on a new location for a city dog pound, and he is to report on plans and costs for the building at a later council meeting.

Davis discussed a proposal to rip out a curb on the north side of the old school building and on the south side of Cleveland Street to allow buses to park off the street.

Street Commissioner Frank Powell requested permission from the council to let the trade school overhaul the 1964 truck he is using. The council granted the request.

Davis informed the council that he had looked over the petition for city manager form of government, presented at an earlier council meeting by the Jaycees and had appointed Bill Smithson, chairman and Ed Rayburn and Phil Santie to canvass the petitions for any irregularities.

Bill Smithson, Leroy Evans and Ed Rayburn were appointed to arrive at a solution to the problem of gasoline service for city trucks.

City Attorney Gordon Fritz informed the council that the Dunklin County Circuit Court had approved annexation of the Cohen- Howell addition. Permission was granted by the council to let the board of public works go ahead with plans to run water lines to the subdivision.

The council discussed the easement between Bland and Stokeland Streets, and a motion was approved to send a letter to Ray Moreau, chairman of the board of public works, requesting the board to move highline poles to the side of the easement.

Bill Smithson was appointed to the planning and zoning commission to replace Jim Corder, who resigned earlier.

Feb. 1 was the date set for a meeting with all councilmen and members of the board of public works as well as supervisors of all city departments.

Teachers strike in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All of the city's 167 public schools remained closed today as a strike called by two teacher organizations entered its third day.

Although the charge was denied, officials said the closings were due to "harrassment, damage to property and physical assaults" by some teachers.

A school board statement did not elaborate, and police said there had been no arrests Tuesday despite minor skirmishes at scenes of picketing by the organizations.

About three-quarters of the city's more than 4,000 teachers were on strike, primarily because of the school board's refusal to grant mid-year pay raises.

Seventy-four of the schools were open Tuesday, but Supt. Clyde C. Miller said they will be closed also "until there is assurance that the laws under which the board must operate will be respected."

Apparently ignored by the striking teachers were copies of a temporary restraining order prohibiting the walkout. The copies of the order were given to pickets at a south side elementary school.

Sheriff Raymond Percich, who was assisted by deputies in issuing the copies, said the serving of the orders to some teachers served the purpose for all as class action.

Vandalism at an elementary school Monday was estimated at $7,800 in repairs and cleanup alone, but Miller said there was no evidence of vandalism [illegible]. A hearing on the temporary injunction against the strike Tuesday and on contempt citations being considered against its leaders is scheduled for Thursday.

A National Educational Association counsel, Robert Chanin, predicted court proceedings could lead to a lengthy battle. "You solve the problem which precipitated the strike," he said, "and you don't do that with injunctions or with contempt."

Thousands view Johnson's casket

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — They came by the thousands and thousands, through the night and into the early morning hours to view the flag-draped casket of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

For hour upon hour, the Johnson family — Lady Bird, the sorrowing widow, her two daughters and their husbands — stood by the closed casket and shook hands with the mourners.

"Thank you for coming," Luci Johnson Nugent said time and again as tears rimmed her eyes. The family finally went to LBJ Ranch, 65 miles to the west, about 8 p.m.

Johnson, 64, died Monday of a severe coronary artery disease, and his body was to be flown on Air Force One to Washington today for funeral services and last honors from the capital he once ruled and loved.

President Nixon declared Thursday a national day of mourning.

In announcing Tuesday night that a cease-fire agreement had been reached in the Vietnam conflict, Nixon said of Johnson, "There was nothing he cared about more deeply than achieving a lasting peace in the world."

Johnson missed the long-looked for peace that eluded him in five years as president by one day. Many put his failure to end the war as his life's greatest disappointment.

As the thousands here walked slowly by the Johnson bier through the night, all had to wait for hours before they could into the Great Hall of library.

By 2 a.m. today, when 28,427 had passed the electric counters, the line dwindled to a trickle.

The body will be flown back from Washington to the LBJ Ranch Thursday.

Evangelist Billy Graham, Johnson's longtime friend, will officiate at final rites before the man from the Pedernales is buried next to his mother in the oak-studded graveyard in Texas' hill country.

The invocation at the burial services will be given by the Rev. Father Wunibald Schneider, Roman Catholic priest at Stonewall, whose church Johnson often attended.

Former secretary of the Treasury and ex-Texas governor John Connally will make brief remarks at the graveside. The public burial, with full military honors, will be concluded with a song by Anita Bryant, and the flag from the coffin will be presented to the widow by Brig. Gen. James U. Cross, Johnson's former military aide and ex-pilot of Air Force One.

Woman hurt in wreck

MARSTON — Naomi Powell, 42, of New Madrid received injury to her left eye at 11:40 p.m. Tuesday when she tried to avoid a car making a U-turn on Interstate 55 four miles south of Marston, but struck the car in the right side. The car was driven by Roger Conklin, 22, of Marston.

Mrs. Powell was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

POW wives reaction

'Like a dream'

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Navy wives whose husbands are prisoners of war had more tears than smiles as they heard President Nixon announce a cease-fire agreement for Vietnam.

"I never really thought we'd hear this. It's like something you dream about and never think is really going to happen," said Charlotte Christian, whose husband has been a POW for more than six years.

Mrs. Christian, sitting on the floor of her den with her three youngsters clustered around, cried quietly when she heard Nixon's announcement.

She wept again when the President said all POW's would be home within 60 days.

"It's anticlimatic," said another of the 21 wives in this Navy base town whose husbands are either prisoners or missing in action.

Louise Mulligan, whose husband has been a prisoner more than seven years, said, "I guess it's finally going to be over. I hope it is. But too much has happened. After seven years of suppressing your emotions, I can't jump up and down."

The attractive, gray-eyed woman, who heard the news with four of her six sons, said, "President Nixon said 'peace with honor.'

"I don't think it's peace with honor. I'm sorry. I don't think those poor people — the South Vietnamese — are going to see peace....

Both wives are concerned about their friends whose husbands are missing in action and might not return. "For us, it's the beginning; for them, it's the end," said Mrs. Christian.

"When my husband gets here, I'm going to be very excited," said Mrs. Mulligan of her husband, Cmdr. James A. Mulligan Jr. "But I have so many friends whose husbands aren't coming home.

"I wish with all my heart that the war had been worth those men dying ... that we had accomplished something. It (the end) had to come, but I think it should have come a few years ago. We pay the price. Our men pay the price."

When Mike Christian of Huntsville, Ala., was shot down in April 1967, he was a lieutenant (junior grade). He's now a lieutenant commander.

His eldest child, Debbie, 13, said simply, "I'm happy."

Asked if she felt she would know her father, Debbie, who was 7 when he became a prisoner, replied, "I don't know. I can't remember anything about him.

"My husband left babies. He's coming home to a house full of girls, to televisions playing constantly, radios, phones, pianos," said Mrs. Christian. "The house is very alive. It may take him some adjustment."
